"AFTER SEVEN YEARS"---A GIRL'S TRAGEDY.

Annie Mullins, exceptionally pretty, buoyant with youth and hope, left her far northern home seven years ago for the land of brighter promise, where life and love lay fair before her. To-day she sleeps in the little graveyard at St. John's, a murderer's victim, while her aged parents mourn their best beloved.

TRAIL SLAYER NORTH

Arlington Police Chief Rushes to St. John on New Clew in Annie Mullins Death Mystery.

On their way to St. John's, N. F., to interview a man whose name has been connected with the mystery surrounding the death of Annie Mullins, are Chief of Police Urquhart of Arlington and a member of the State police whose name Deputy Neal will not reveal.

It was announced that the officials had gone to Maine on a mysterious clew. Instead, it has been learned, they took the quickest way and the shortest route of reaching St. John's.

The man they are seeking is now in St. John's, but, according to the information given the officials from a secret source, he was in Boston on the night that Annie Mullins met her death in Squires field, Arlington.

SEARCH ON NEW LINES.

It was the police purpose all along to let the public believe that the man they sought was still in Massachusetts. His name had been mentioned in connection with the case, but was dismissed without apparent serious investigation.

It is said that this man took the first opportunity, when the thought that attention had been turned from him, to leave the city and make his way over the border, where he thought that no suspicion would be attracted toward him.

No sooner had they learned that this man had been in the city at the time that Annie Mullins was lured away from the home of Prof. von Engelmann and brutally murdered, than the police took up a line of investigation which brought to their attention the fact that the man was in a position to have committed the crime, and to have possibly what no other suspect had—a motive.

Immediately they commenced a search for the suspect to learn that he had left the city suddenly and was to all known intentions on his way to St. John's.

WILL ARRIVE MONDAY.

That started the police on their present line of investigation. Making their plans as quietly as possible, Chief Urquhart and a member of the State force boarded the 7 o'clock train out of the North station last night and headed for St. John's. According to the best calculations they can not arrive there until next Monday's sailing.

Important messages from a source which they refuse to reveal, have informed the officials of the movements of the man from the time he left Boston. It is the intention of the authorities to suddenly step in upon him, and taking him by surprise to secure from him admissions which will warrant their asking the Canadian government for papers with which to bring him back to Massachusetts, a prisoner charged with the murder of Annie Mullins.

This man knew the murdered girl. knew her in St. John's. Knew her fatally. While there is no recollection on the part of the relatives that he had been here for the purpose of calling on the girl while she was at work as a domestic in Cambridge, it is known that he kept himself informed of her movements.

FACTS WERE SUSPICIOUS.

So suspicious were the facts gathered by several days of the most careful and secret investigation, that the police felt that they could not disregard the information. When the officers left for St. Johns they probably believed that their destination was known only to very few of the officials connected with the case.

It was given out that they were on their way to Maine to investigate the report made by a passenger on a train between Portland and Bangor, who overheard an employe of the Elevated railroad remark to his companion:

"I don't be afraid, this will not detain us long. We will be in Vanceboro in the morning, and then we are a long way from the Heights."

The train had stopped on account of a fire, and the two men, supposed to be Elevated employes, appeared to be nervous, one of them more so than the other. From unotherly the passenger who overheard the remark believed that the "Heights" referred to Arlington Heights, the terminus of the line of cars which pass by the scene of the murder.

While the police will investigate this story, their real destination, it became known to-day, was St. John's, where the more important clew leads.

DEFEND SHANAHAN.

Hendlet Shanahan, whose name has been connected with the Mullins case because it was found that he knew the murdered girl, was warmly defended to-day by his former shipmates on the schooner Francis Whalen, when that craft arrived at T Wharf. These men declared that Shanahan could not be guilty of the crime, that it had been committed by a coward, and that Shanahan had shown himself to be a brave man.

Another name mentioned in connection with the investigation is that of Patrick Connell who is said to have been a sweetheart of Annie Mullins before the girl arrived in this country. Connell is now believed to be working somewhere in the Provinces, and is not known to have been in Boston recently. If he can be located the officers believe that they may learn something about the dead girl's life in St. Johns, some facts which they have not been able to obtain from the relatives in South Boston.

The inquest into the death of the girl will be resumed at the Cambridge Municipal Court to-morrow, and a number of witnesses who did not testify at the last hearing, and some who did, will be brought to the stand.

In an interview with a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day, Mrs. John Walker of Needham Heights, who was Katie Averille before her marriage, denied that she had been intimately acquainted with either Engelsdorf Shanahan, Patrick Sweeney or Annie Mullins.

IMPROVEMENT OF GOVERNOR CONTINUES

Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., is continuing his remarkable fight for life and health. To-day he is really better than he has been in the past fortnight, during which he came as near death as any one can and not succumb. The bulletin to-day from his doctor, Frederick B. Winslow, is even slightly more encouraging than that of yesterday. It follows:

"Moderate improvement continues."

HIBBARD AND STORROW CLASH ON SCHOOL FUND

Mayor Wants $200,000 for Fireproofing Buildings Taken From $1,000,000 Loan.

Mayor Hibbard and the school committee have clashed over the proposed expenditure of $200,000 for making fireproof Boston schoolhouses which, according to the report of Chairman H. Clinton Storrow of the Schoolhouse Commission, are at present in a dangerous condition. The Mayor wants the $200,000 taken from the $1,000,000 loan raised annually by legislative authority for new schoolhouse accommodations in the city. Chairman James J. Storrow of the Schoolhouse Commission is willing to assent to this, provided that the Schoolhouse Commission will certify in writing that he expenditure of $800,000 during the current year will provide ample school accommodations for the city.

The Mayor is much exercised over the matter. He believes that the first duty of the city is to render fireproof those schoolhouses already occupied. To-day Superintendent of Schools Stratton D. Brooks, James A. McKibben, secretary to Chairman J. J. Storrow of the School Board, Schoolhouse Commissioner James B. Noyes, and Secretary James C. White, representing the Mayor's office, will confer on the matter.

If the school committee should refuse to accede to the Mayor's request for giving out of the construction fund, the Mayor is ready to appeal to the Legislature for legislation compelling the use of $200,000 of this fund for remodeling the schoolhouses proposed. The legislative committee on rules has already been approached on the matter, and is reported to be willing to admit a petition for such legislation.

Mayor Hibbard to-day quit his office for the remainder of the week and Chairman Louis M. Clark of the Board of Aldermen will be acting Mayor until Monday. To-night His Honor and Acting Superintendent of Streets James H. Sullivan go to Waterbury, Ct., where they will visit a vitrified brick plant. The question of substituting vitrified brick for granit block paving is being considered by the Mayor and Mr. Sullivan.

DISMISS WIDOW'S SUIT IN CROCKER WILL FIGHT

SUPREME COURT REFUSES BILL OF REVIEW TO SET ASIDE DECREE.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion handed down to-day, dismisses the petition of Mrs. Annie J. Crocker, widow of the late Uriel Crocker, for a bill of review to set aside the decree allowing the famous Crocker will, which disposed of an estate of over a million.

The court in a lengthy opinion declares that they have no authority to issue an order for a review simply on account of the misconduct of a juror, as that is a criminal matter.

In Same Position as if No Will.

The court says the widow is in the same position as if no will had been discovered at the time of her husband's death. Then administrators were appointed for the estate, and then a will was found. The remedy lies in an appeal to the probate court to nullify the appointment of the administrators who distributed the estate at the time of the compromise last year on the ground that their appointment fell the fate and impartial hearing and she further offered to return all the money paid her if the will was allowed.

to give back all money obtained, whether the will is allowed or disallowed.

Uriel Crocker died in 1903, leaving the bulk of his estate of over $1,000,000 to his widow. The sons, George L., Joseph H. and Edgar Crocker appealed on the ground that the widow had exerted undue influence. The case was tried before the Supreme Court judge and jury, and was decided against Mrs. Crocker.

Juror Bribed in Suit.

At that trial Juror Matthew Killion was bribed. Mrs. Crocker appealed to the full bench, and the full bench sustained the verdict of the jury and sent the case back to the Probate Court.

A compromise was effected, and the estate was administered as if Crocker had died intestate. Mrs. Crocker being paid a large sum for her dower rights. Killion was indicted for bribery, pleaded guilty and in January, 1907, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction.

Mrs. Crocker then filed the petition just acted on, asking for a bill of review on the ground that she had been deprived of a

GARDNER TO FORCE WAR IN CONVENTION

INSISTS ON TAFT RESOLUTIONS REGARDLESS OF SENATORIAL PACT.

Unshaken in his determination to have the Taft issue presented squarely to the Republican convention to-morrow, heedless of the opinions of his father-in-law, Senator Lodge, and joined to-day by ex-Speaker of the House James J. Meyers of Cambridge and ex-Mayor John R. Kent of Brockton in demanding a "show down," Congressman Augustus P. Gardner of the Sixth District promises trouble to the State gathering of Republicans to-morrow.

"If I live until to-morrow, and if nobody else presents them," declared the Sixth District Congressman to-day, "I'll offer straightout Taft resolutions myself. And they'll be no plain and direct that the voice of Massachusetts cannot be misunderstood."

Congressman Gardner intends that throughout the country to-morrow shall be heralded the news that Massachusetts has instructed its delegates for Taft. Under such an instruction Senator Crane may refuse to go to the national convention as a delegate-at-large, and exGovernor Long will, with an all-day session of the committee on resolutions; with the Taft executive committee meeting in contract session, and with both United States Senators keeping themselves aloof from rival combatants, their is only the hope on the part of the close followers of the Senators that the radical Taft men may be influenced over night not to interject a bitter struggle into the convention.

Senators in Seclusion.

Senator Lodge, spending the night at the home of a relative in the Back Bay, omitted his customary call to-day at Republican headquarters, and Senator Crane, in the seclusion of the Pompino, denied any information on things political to any but close friends. Both Senators oppose the passage of even preferential resolutions to-morrow.

The committee on resolutions went into session in the Kimball building at 11:15 o'clock to-day, and while a majority of the committee are opposed to presenting any kind of a resolution bearing upon the Presidential nomination, a minority report embodying a strong declaration for Taft is mentioned.

Ex-Mayor John R. Kent of Brockton, representing the Thirteenth Congressional district on the committee on resolutions, is an out-and-out believer in the passage of a Taft resolution, and just prior to entering the committee rooms to-day announced that a minority report would accompany the report of the committee. This minority report will carry a stiff Taft resolution.

Resolutions Committee Meets.

"Jake" Wardwell of Haverhill, Surveyor of the Port "Gerry" McGrath, ex-President of the Senate George E. Smith and Arthur D. Hill of Boston, who is drafting the resolutions, were among the earliest to arrive at Republican State headquarters to-day. With these others, comprising the full membership of the committee on resolutions, they went into session.

Fred S. Hall of Taunton, William W. McCleary of Springfield, G. Marston Whiting of Whitinsville, Clinton Q. Richmond of North Adams, Timothy G. Spaulding of Northampton, E. S. Johnson of Worcester, George R. Wallace of Fitchburg, George H. Tapper of Lowell, Charles L. Bean of Malden, Everett C. Benton of Belmont, Thomas H. Leavitt of Boston, George F. Beckford of Boston, Albion P. Bemis of Brookline an David P. Rinds of Fall River.

Headed by ex-Congressman Powers, the executive committee of the Taft league went into session at 2 o'clock in the Ames Building. Manager Powers differs with his senatorial chief on the question of resolutions. Powers favors the passage of resolutions expressing a preference for Taft.

To-night at the American House the customary auto-convention reception will be tendered to State officers, the United States Senators, and officers of the convention.

Thorndike Spalding of Cambridge is chairman of a reception committee of fifty Republicans. The reception will last from 8 until 10 o'clock. Senators Lodge and Crane will meet at the reception to-night for the first time since their coming to Boston, although to-day they had frequent talks over the telephone upon the perplexing political situation.

Promptly at 10 o'clock to-morrow Chairman George H. Doty will call the convention to order in Tremont Temple. Postmaster-General George von L. Meyer, who is in Boston, arrived in Boston early this afternoon.

REGAINS HER VOICE LOST 3 MONTHS AGO

BELLEVILLE, Ill., April 9.—On the night of the blowing up of the Phoenix powder mills, near here, three months ago, Mrs. Frederic Hall of Wanda lost her power of speech.

To-day, while suffering a severe coughing spell, she regained her voice and spoke for the first time in three months.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT CONVENTION TONIGHT

Eleventh District Republicans elect their delegates to the Chicago convention to-night. Ex-Senator Charles H. Innes of Ward 19 and Ira C. Clark of Ward 23 have secured 64 of the 100 delegates entitled to sit in the convention. They are certain of election. Innes is a staunch Taft supporter. Clark won his delegates on the unpledged caucus ticket, but favors Taft as first choice. A mild Taft resolution of preference will be passed by to-night's convention.

BENEFIT RECITAL TO AID CRIPPLES

At the Tuileries the first of a series of recitals for the benefit of the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children, was given. The program included Leon Vilet, cellist; Hazel R. Jordan, Jr., harpist, and Bertha Wells Gibson, reader, and Mabelle Dearborn Schofield, accompanist. Recitals will also be given on Wednesday mornings, April 16 and 22.

SPECIAL MEMORIAL FOR HIBERNIAN DEAD

A memorial service in honor of the deceased members of the sixty-five divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Suffolk County will be held in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross on April 20 at 10 a. m. His Grace Archbishop O'Connell and Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, spiritual director of the order, will address the members, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Father Supple. The members will attend the mass in a body. Special meetings are being held in each of the divisions in preparation for the event. It is expected there will be 5,000 present.

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING TO-DAY

The Boston Trade School for Girls will hold its Spring millinery opening at No. 678 Massachusetts avenue, from 2 to 10 until 6. Hats of all styles and at all prices will be on exhibition and for sale, and orders will be taken. At the same time the work of all the other departments of the school will be exhibited. The school is free to all girls between fourteen and seventeen years of age.

THE EXCOMMUNICATION OF KING ROBERT THE PIOUS'

FAMOUS PORTRAIT FREE WITH NEXT SUNDAY'S AMERICAN

FRIENDS DEFEND SHANAHAN, NOW SOUGHT BY THE POLICE

Fellow-Fishermen Resent the Mention of His Name in Connection with the Annie Mullins Mystery.

Benedict Shanahan, sought by the police who are investigating the murder of Annie Mullins, in order to question him as to his acquaintance and that of others with the girl mysteriously slain at Allington, was warmly defended by his former shipmates on the schooner Francis Whalen, which arrived at T wharf to-day.

These men declared their positive faith in Shanahan and announced that they would stand by him to the end.

"Shanahan could have had no connection with such a thing," his associates declared.

"IS BRAVE AS A LION."

"Connecting Shanahan's name with this case is one of the most outrageous things I ever heard of," said Captain Norris to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "Shanahan is a great big boy, the very soul of good nature. He doesn't know the meaning of the word fear. The man who murdered Annie Mullins was a coward. Shanahan is brave as a lion and the people connecting his name in any way with the case ought to stop and think what they may mean to him in later years."

Peter O'Neil was Shanahan's shipmate aboard the Francis Whalen.

"He is truly a brave man," said O'Neil. "I knew him well. I never once saw him lose his temper, show an ugly disposition or do anything unmanly. Shanahan isn't the kind of a man to be mixed up in such affairs as that murder."

Captain Norton, manager of "T" wharf, residing here, a boarding place for fishermen, also came to Shanahan's defence in vigorous English.

These men are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the schooner Catherine and Ellen, on which Shanahan shipped last Friday. When the fishermen reached this port he will find a number of his old companions ready to assist him if he needs aid. They all stand ready to help clear him.

Shanahan was a former lodger at No. 222 Endicott street, East Boston. Some of his clothes were found in the house, and according to the landlady, Mrs. Edward Powers, Shanahan was there for several days previous to sailing on the Catherine and Ellen, now on the flanks.

It was not the first time that Shanahan had roomed with Mrs. Powers. Four years ago, when she lived on Orleans street, Shanahan lodged with her, and also at other places. When Mrs. Powers went home to Newfoundland she lost sight of Shanahan until she returned to East Boston nearly a year ago. Last Fall he took a room at her house.

He still has the room at the Powers house. His clothes are there.

Mrs. Powers says that when Shanahan was discharged from the Marine Hospital on March 23 he came to her house at 6 o'clock that night, and that to the best of her knowledge and belief he slept there every night from Monday until the following Sunday.

This period includes the Friday night that Annie Mullins was killed, and includes also the Monday afternoon on which Annie Mullins is reported to have received a caller at the home of Professor von Jagemann.

WENT TO GRAHAM HOUSE.

It was also the impression of Mrs. Powers that Shanahan attended a wake on Monday, March 30. It was on that date that the body of Annie Mullins reached at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Graham, in South Boston.

Shanahan's friends, both afloat and ashore, are vigorous in their defence of his character. The "T" wharf fishermen swear by him, and refer to him as a good shipmate, popular and never showing any traits out of the way.

Patrick Sweeney of Maynard, a former resident of South Boston, say that several years ago he and Shanahan visited Annie Mullins and Katie Neville. Sweeney is not sure whether Shanahan kept company with Annie or not, but he did remember seeing him on the street with Katie Neville.

Conflicting statements make it appear doubtful whether Shanahan was the more friendly with Kate Neville or with Annie Mullins.

At T wharf the associates who know Shanahan say that he constantly talked about Katie Neville.

James Graham says that Shanahan came to his mother's house on the night of the wake and asked to be let in. According to Graham Shanahan based his right on the statement that he was engaged to Annie Mullins, and would have been satisfied to her but for the aunt's interference.

SEEK PATRICK CONNELL, WHO KNEW GIRL AT OLD HOME

Believing that Annie Mullins had a secret love affair which might prove the clue to her murder, the police are to-day seeking Patrick Connell and others who are supposed to have been intimately acquainted with the girl, in the hope of obtaining information on this point.

Connell is reported to have been an early sweetheart of the slain girl. He was born and brought up on a farm adjoining that of the Mullins family on the Blackmarsh road in St. John's.

Since the very first the police have desired to talk with Connell and to have him tell them what he knew of the dead girl's past life, and particularly of her love affairs of the early days in her home town.

It is the opinion of the police to-day that Connell may be able to tell them something definite concerning the girl's friends and her habits of recent times. Connell, the police believe, will be able to throw some light upon the movements and identity of the mysterious callers who have been entertained by Annie Mullins in the past few months.

He will be able, the police are satisfied, to aid them materially in locating the man who made the mysterious visits to the girl's home in the days preceding her brutal murder and on Monday afternoon previous.

When Connell was questioned by the police do not know, but they have been informed that he was in Boston with a companion on the days previous to and on the evening of the murder. A witness has been found, the police declare, who saw Connell in Boston with a fisherman-friend, friend just previous to the murder.

This witness declares that one, if not both, of the men knew Annie Mullins well and talked of her continually. The witness said that they went in search of her, declaring that they were going out to see their old friend Annie Mullins, and that they would be entertained nicely.

Connell was born on the farm adjoining that of the Mullins's family on the Blackmarsh road in St. John's, N. F., but he went away from home early.

He had some experience before the mast and went to sea as a fisherman on more than one occasion. His trade was learned in a rope walk and he worked at it often and in many of the different rope walks throughout the country.

Connell often came to Boston, and it is said frequently called upon Annie Mullins when here. Connell was accustomed to wear excellent clothing and, being a fine looking chap, attracted the attention of many of the fair sex.

Annie Mullins talked much of Connell and many of her friends believed she would marry him and settle down, but for some unknown reason they did not agree perfectly.

Having heard that Connell and Annie quarreled just previous to the time of her death the police are anxious to find and interview Connell to ascertain what he knows, if anything, of her other male acquaintances.

Connell, the police fear, may have gone upon a fishing trip, for he was most of the time during his visit to Boston in the company of fishermen, who also came from St. John's.

NEVER A CHUM OF ANNIE MULLINS, SAYS MRS. JOHN WALKER

Mrs. John Walker of No. 51 Hillside avenue, Needham Heights, who was Miss Katie Neville of Newfoundland before she was married, to-day positively denied to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter that she had ever been a chum or more than an acquaintance of Annie Mullins. She said: "Why, I haven't so much as seen Annie Mullins for seven years, and in all that time have nothing about her until I read of her tragic death in the newspapers. We were never anything more than casual acquaintances, that's all.

"Annie and I never knew each other in Newfoundland. We lived about seven miles apart, she living in St. John's while my home was seven miles in the country. From the city I came to Boston in 1899, and she came here in 1900. I never met at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Travis, in South Boston, whom I visited occasionally.

"At that time Annie sort of looked down on me, I thought, for I was working in a factory and she was doing housework. Down in Newfoundland many people think housework is better than factory work. So Annie and I were never a real top notch call friends.

"We were never chums. Why, all told, I never knew her for more than six months. I was then living in South Boston. In that six months I saw her not more than six times. This was in the latter part of 1900. After that time I moved out to Needham and got a place in Carter's underwear factory and worked there for several years.

"I have only met Annie Mullins once since then. That was in September of 1901 when I was on my way to the city on a train. She didn't even know me until I spoke to her. Then we talked and each exchanged commonplaces, but we did not ride together or have any conversation.

"I remember meeting Benedict Shanahan. How many times I met him I cannot remember. It was more than once, however. He was at the home of Annie Travis in South Boston, where he had gone to see Annie Mullins. He seemed to be an honest, hard-working sort of a man. Whether I am to meet him to-day I wouldn't know him. I didn't think that he and Annie were very special friends.

"I never remember seeing or meeting Patrick Connell at all. I do not know who he is or anything about him. I never knew of him until this murder mystery began to be printed in the newspapers. The last I went to Mrs. Travis's I did not go there to see Annie, but her aunt. Now that I am all I can tell the BOSTON AMERICAN about Annie or her friends."

Mrs. Walker is a good looking, intelligent woman. Last year she became the wife of John Walker, a respectable, hard-working machinist, who is employed in Newton. She lives in a comfortable and modest home and was entirely unprepared for finding what Bittle she knew of the murdered girl.

LOTTERY IS FINED $25,000

CINCINNATI, O., April 9.—The Kentucky lottery, pleading guilty to the indictment charging violation of the United States laws to-day in the United States Court at Covington, Ky., was fined $25,000 and agreed to go out of business forever.

HALIFAX CONSUL DEAD.

DEPUTY POLICE CHIEF IS DEAD

Deputy Chief William F. Batchelder of the Cambridge Police Department was found dead in his bed to-day at his home, No. 44 Magazine street. Heart failure was the cause. He had been in poor health for some time.

He was born in Danville, Vt., September 16, 1844, and came to this State while quite young. For several years he was a member of the Massachusetts State police, being stationed in Worcester. He was appointed a policeman on the Cambridge force on January 5, 1877. In June of 1883 he became a police sergeant, and held the position of deputy chief since it was created in 1897. He was a member of the Cambridge Lodge of Elks and of the Knights of Malta.

WINTHROP SCHOOLS OPEN.

The schools of Winthrop, which have been closed for two weeks on account of the epidemic of scarlet fever in the town, will reopen next Monday morning, according to an announcement made to-day by Superintendent Frank A. Douglass.

PRESIDENT TO WAGE WAR ON ANARCHISM

LETTER TO CONGRESS DECLARES HIS POWER TO FORBID MAILS TO AGITATORS.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The President forwarded to Congress to-day a letter from the Department of Justice on the subject of anarchy. In his letter of transmission he said:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"I herewith submit a letter from the Department of Justice, which explains itself. Under this opinion, I hold that existing statutes give the President the power to prohibit the Postmaster-General from being used as an instrument in the commission of crime; that is, to prohibit the use of the mails for the discovery of murder, arson and treason; and I shall act upon such construction. Unquestionably, however, there should be further legislation by Congress in this matter. When compared with the suppression of anarchy, every other question sinks into insignificance. The Anarchist is the enemy of humanity, the enemy of all mankind, and his is a deeper degree of criminality than any other. No immigrant is allowed to come to our shores if he is an Anarchist; and no paper published here or abroad should be permitted circulation in this country if it propagates anarchistic opinions.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 9.—The Supreme Court to-day declared the prohibition and 9 o'clock closing law constitutional.

FRENCH OFFER TO TRY ROY IN PARIS COURT.

Dispatches from Paris to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day announce that the French government is willing to proceed with the trial of Yang Roy at whom Glacia Calia accuses of killing her brother, George Carkins, in Newington, N. H.

While the French authorities have refused to surrender Roy and let him be brought to the United States, the foreign department has offered to proceed with the murder charge on receipt of necessary evidence.

Roy, who is the son of a rich horse dealer living in one of the suburbs of the French capital, is reporting to the police pending the final decision in the case, expresses no fear as to the outcome. His attorney says that it will be an extremely difficult matter to secure a conviction, as dwelling is legal defence under the French code. Roy declares he shot Carkin in self-defence during a duel in the kitchen of Glacia Calia's house.

MISS MARLOWE CANCELS HER ENGAGEMENT

Prostrated by News of the Divorce Suit Filed in Salem Court.

LAWYER SPEAKS FOR HER

ITHACA, April 9.—Prostrated by the news that she had been named as a co-respondent in the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Clara Louise von Hermann against Karl Stephens von Hermann, Miss Julia Marlowe has cancelled all her engagements for this week and was unable to appear last night, although the house was nearly sold out.

Miss Marlowe evidently first heard of the action when she reached here.

Miss Marlowe arrived in a private car from Canada. Her car was designated by newspaper men, but she would not be seen and referred the reporters to her manager, Will C. Ellsler, who declared:

"Miss Marlowe has nothing whatever to say at this time. At the proper time and place she will speak."

NEW YORK, April 9.—"Von Hermann's associations with Miss Julia Marlowe were simply those of an employe. She has known of these charges of Von Hermann's wife for several weeks and has decided to ignore them.

"The present suit for divorce in which she is named simply illustrates the danger of blackmail to which every man of prominence may be subjected by jealous persons."

The above statement, made to-day by C. E. Russell, Miss Marlowe's business representative, outlines what her answer will be to the accusation brought by Karl von Hermann's wife in Boston, when she named the distinguished actress in her suit for divorce against her husband.

"We will have a sensational statement within a day or so," Mr. Russell added. Sutter consulting Ward and Hayden, the lawyers for the actress.

"Persons who know Miss Marlowe will dismiss the accusations at once. I have advised her to keep silent and let the slurs fall of their own weight."

It is rumored that Miss Marlowe is on her way to this city to consult her lawyer, Herbert L. Satterlee, in regard to action to be taken in view of some of the mysterious disclosures in connection with the Von Herrmann suit.

MRS. BACKUS SAYS SHE KNEW HERMANN EIGHT YEARS AGO

NEW YORK, April 9.—Mrs. Foster L. Backus, named as co-respondent in Julia Marlowe in a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Clara Louise von Hermann, changed a denial that she made a day ago and said that she knew a man named Hermann, who might be the defendant in the divorce suit. The Hermann she knew was a writer of a few years ago, and in that respect answers the description of the Hermann who is being sued by his wife at Salem, Mass. She became acquainted with him through his occasional visits to her home with her husband.

Mrs. Backus denied that she had seen or heard of Hermann in eight years. She said she did not even know the name, and as for her denial that she had ever heard of the other parties to the suit, she said that she did not recall at the time that she had ever known a man named Hermann.

BANK CLOSED, POLICE FIGHT ANGRY CROWDS

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—The Olivett Bank, a State institution, was closed by order of the State bank examiner. A notice on the door read:

"This bank is in the hands of the Secretary of State.

(Signed) "R. M. COOK,
"State Bank Examiner."

"April 9, 1908."

Depositors were astounded when they read the notice. Some of them became panic stricken.

Thomas French, cashier, denied yesterday the report that an employe was short in his accounts, and the run soon became quiet over the doors. A squad of police took charge and prevented the crowd from storming the doors.

The Olivett Bank was connected with the late Lemuel Lincoln Trust company, and some of its stock is held as security for loans made by the trust company. The capital stock is $200,000.

DEXTER SWEPT BY SNOW STORM

DEXTER, Me., April 9.—With the wind blowing from the north east, Dexter is in the throes of one of the worst snow storms of the winter. The snow began to come down during last evening in a mild manner and kept increasing during the night and to-day over six inches had fallen.

WATCHMAN BEATEN BY UNKNOWN THUGS

Lewis J. Kuntz, a night watchman in Sullivan's stable on Beverly street, who lives at 68 Pamphlet street, Dorchester, is in critical state at the Relief Hospital, the result of an attack by unknown ruffians who entered the stable last night. He is unconscious and, it is feared, will not live.

FOURTH ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE SUCCESSFUL

NEW BEDFORD, April 9.—Frank H. Perkins ended his own life by hanging. It being his fourth attempt at suicide. He jumped into the water and twice took poison. But the attempt was thwarted by boatmen and on the other two occasions his life was saved by an overdose of poison.

KILLS SELF IN FEAR OF BECOMING MURDERER

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 9.—Colonel William L. Dulacey, army surgeon of the Civil War, committed suicide early to-day by inhaling illuminating gas. It is later developed that he had a homicidal mania, and rather than commit homicide had decided upon suicide.

Colonel Delacey at the age of sixteen enlisted in a New Jersey regiment and served throughout the Civil War. He was a lawyer.

BANKS AID IN WAR ON ANTI-TRUST MEASURE

CORPORATIONS ADOPT DESPERATE MEANS TO FIGHT HISGEN-COOLIDGE BILL.

Desperate measures have been ordered by the trusts in the fight to kill the Hisgen-Coolidge anti-discrimination bill in the Massachusetts Legislature.

To-day corporation lawyers and lobbyists are working night and main to have the measure rejected. Threats are being brought to bear on the banks to exert their influence on the business men of the Legislature to vote against the bill.

Thoroughly alarmed by the overwhelming vote by which the House of Representatives turned down the "leave to withdraw" report of the Joint Committee on Judiciary, and the substitution therefor of the Hisgen-Coolidge bill, which means an end to their special privileges, the Standard Oil and other trusts are making a strong stand against the measure, which is framed to insure equal rights for the independent dealers of the State.

Vote Surprised Trusts.

The Hisgen-Coolidge bill is the one topic for conversation in the State House corridors. The vote of more than two to one for the bill's substitution was a complete surprise to its opponents. Committee reports are not usually overturned by so overwhelming a vote.

Immediately the "pro-discriminationists"—as one lobby habitue termed them—got busy.

The bill is on the calendar as ordered to a third reading. It will be reached probably to-morrow.

The lobby game is not the only one that the bill's opponents are working, according to well informed persons on Beacon Hill. There is another one that is worked when most others fail. It is the game of getting to a man's mind—or his vote—by way of his pocketbook. It is the game of reaching a man through his banker.

There are plenty of business men in the Massachusetts Legislature, and the dependency of their interests upon the goodwill of banks has made more than one of them feel uneasy.

Trusts a Power in Bank.

The power of the Oil Trust and its kindred upon banking institutions in this Commonwealth has been a topic for discussion more than once. It is, perhaps, a desperate method, but the Hisgen-Coolidge bill is a desperate measure when one views it from the standpoint of a trust magnate.

The bill, House No. 1,425, was drafted by Representative Calvin Coolidge of Northampton, a member of the Judiciary Committee, after that body had declined to report the original petition. It differs from the Hisgen petition in that it does not aim for a criminal statute.

Mr. Hisgen's original bill provided that persons, firms or corporations who sell their products at a lower rate in one section than in another for the purpose of destroying the business of a competitor should be fined from $500 to $5,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both fine and imprisonment. The substituted bill differs in that it provides no penalty, but, instead, empowers the Attorney-General, or a District Attorney by his direction, to bring action to restrain violations of the act.

DE SAGAN THINKS HE HAS WON ANNA GOULD'S HAND

THE PRINCE MAY ASK A DISPENSATION TO MARRY THE LADY OF MILLIONS.

NEW YORK, April 9.—"Mme. Gould and I had a thorough understanding before she left Paris.

"She is a very clever woman, and I knew when she left Paris that she could confront all of her family and would be able to carry her point and do as she thought best in the matter."

This statement by Prince Helie de Sagan apparently closes the incident. His marriage to the former wife of his cousin, Count Boni de Castellane, having been prearranged, will take place in many months, it is expected. The Prince was in a happy mood. He was asked if he still is a Catholic.

"Yes, I am," he said.

"Are you a practical Catholic?" was asked.

"Yes, I think I am," he replied.

"Well, how are you going to avoid the mandate of the Church against marrying a divorced woman?" was asked.

Not Borrowing Trouble.

"I can't say just now; I am not borrowing any trouble," the Prince replied.

Prince De Sagan was then asked whether he intended to appeal to the Pope for a special dispensation to permit the marriage.

"I won't borrow trouble now," said the Prince, "I will wait until I encounter it. If I find it necessary I shall appeal to the Pope for a special dispensation."

A Catholic priest who stands high in the church and has charge of many prominent weddings in this city said that it is a lamentable thing that De Sagan had come to this country claiming to be a Catholic and yet seeking to marry Mme. Gould, a divorced woman.

The priest said that if the marriage was performed the Prince could undoubtedly be excommunicated.

The priest, commenting on De Sagan's action in seeking Mme. Gould's hand, further said it was a great pity for him to attempt to assume the role of head of a family force and take the custody of the three children of Mme. Gould, who are now being brought up as Catholics and educated as such by a priest, in furtherance of their faith. The mother at the time of her marriage to the Count de Castellane.

Looking Up De Sagan's Record.

It has become known that George J. Gould has applied to the chief of police of Paris for the record of Prince Helie de Sagan. This move on the head of the Gould family has caused as much surprise to the Prince as to every one else concerned. It can only be construed as an effort to get a series of efforts to attack the Prince's suit.

In common with most continental countries, the French constabulary has on file the complete life history of every one within its jurisdiction, so that George J. Gould's intention is obviously to obtain a list of all of Helie's debaucheries and escapades, and lay them before his sister so that she may be deceived as to the true character of the man who is aspiring for her hand.

It is known that Helie's gambling debts are enormous, while his numerous loans have also cost him immense sums, and all in all it is rumored that he owes at least $6,000,000. Every acre of land he family owns in Spain and Perigord is mortgaged to its full valuation. For the past few years, it is said, the Prince has been kept by his wife, principally following the occupation of a miser. His family has been reduced to the direst extremities.

Helie's father, now a decrepit paralytic eighty years old, whose reputation is, if anything, even worse than that of his son, is living in an obscure quarter of Paris, supported by the charity of friends.

WANT TO BE HAPPY? GO AND WALK!

By EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Spring! There is a stirring within you. you feel like DOING something, and doing it with your MUSCLES, don't you? You feel like exercise.

Walking is what you want, because walking is the finest exercise in the world. And, in addition, it is the most dignified, it is the healthiest of all exercises. Best of all, perhaps, walking makes for cheerfulness.

You never saw a man or a woman who did a good deal of walking, of gloomy disposition, always looking on the dark side of things. Walking makes people love life, love the world, and glad they themselves are alive.

One more point in favor of walking as THE exercise. It is cheap. It costs nothing at all. You ought to take advantage—immediate advantage—of this Spring stirring within you and take to walking. And if you do, you won't need any expensive paraphernalia, nor will you need to take any lessons of any one at fancy prices. All you have to do is to walk.

Just Be Natural.

Of course, there is a right and a wrong way to walk, at any time, and especially when you are walking for exercise. I shall tell you the right way further on in this column. But, really, all you have to do, as I said before, is to walk; that is, be natural.

A woman once asked a famous walker if he was very tired. This was just as he had concluded a jaunt of 116 miles within twenty-four hours.

"Madam," he replied, "I was never tired in my life, I was born lazy."

Then he added: "If you had asked me if I ever felt like being seated or liked lying down, I would have said yes. Between the second and third mile, in every effort, whether it be of fifty, 100, 500 or 1,500 miles, the beginning, before the third mile, it requires all my will power, principle and pride to keep me on my feet."

This is the reason people in Boston are so reluctant to adopt the exercise that will do them the most good. They start out for a brisk walk, and, after going a mile or two, they are perspiring freely. Then a feeling of weariness assails them, and they yield to it and give up the walk then and there.

People do not realize that the exercise may be new to their muscles, and that they have to be taught a little patience. Let these muscles a chance to become accustomed. If they go on for two or three miles further, by the time they have reached the sixth mile they will begin to realize that good results may follow this action, and when they have gone ten miles it will become interesting.

This applies to walking on country roads, on city sidewalks and pavements. At walk around Public Gardens, keeping on the dirt path inside, is equivalent to being on a country road, and should the average citizen take a walk of six and a half miles, in the early morning or after 5 p. m. each day, he would find his would increase in vigor and strength, and his appetite would astonish him.

To make walking do the most good the following system should be adopted:

Each day, in this Springtime especially, rise about 7 a. m., take a bowl of hot coffee, cocoa, tea or milk, then put on a suit of medium weight, medium underwear, with knit woolen socks, a pair of knee breeches, and broad and thick-soled shoes with flat heels. Wear a short blouse or "Garibaldi" (in place of a shirt), which should be buttoned to the knee breeches. Then wear wide canvas belt (similar to canvas belts for horse blankets) and woolen jacket. On the head wear a light cloth cap or a white fillet or linen cap.

Thus equipped, make your start.

Before leaving your home you should first arrange to have an earthen basin or wash bowl, with about six or eight quarts of water, and a coffee cup full of rock salt (the kind used in making ice cream) dissolved in it. This should be cold; but if you are not used to a cold bath, then make it the temperature of your usual bath, having a sponge at hand.

Go Leisurely at First.

When leaving home walk leisurely, and when you start walk the first mile not faster than at the rate of four miles an hour. Continuing journey, make four and a quarter miles an hour, and at the close increase it to five miles an hour.

By this time you will be blowing with perspiration, and you must then maintain the same gait until you arrive in your bathroom, immediately disrobe and, stepping in the tub, squeeze a well soaked sponge over your head, with the first water previously prepared, two or three times. Then dry yourself thoroughly, and to prevent taking cold sop your body with half diluted alcohol with your hands and dry there.

This salt sponge bath removes the impurities in the pores of the skin, and is the best medicine in the world, because it is natural.

Should you discover a blister on either foot or toes, puncture it with a needle. That will let the water or fever out. Then sop the feet up and down in the salt water, remaining in the bathtub for four or five minutes. After wiping the feet thoroughly dry sop them with half diluted alcohol, and let dry in.

Will Improve Disposition.

After one has practiced this treatment for a week or two the effect upon the general health and disposition will become apparent.

The great interest that would be taken in walking if people would only get started was never better shown than on any recent walk from Portland to Chicago. On that walk thousands who, if they safely say, rarely, if ever, walk as much as a mile at a time, would join me when the weather was pleasant, and to their own surprise would walk five miles or more, enjoying the fresh air and admiring the beautiful scenery which most of them had only seen on postal cards before, though it was practically at their very doors.

The people were started by curiosity, and afterwards impelled by the rejuvenated feeling it produced in them. In this class there were both sexes and all ages, and I receive letters every day from many of them telling how the first long walk they took with me has led them on to more, and they take long walks over the country. Now, I never yet have had the opportunity, and every one of them tells me of the great change, both physically and mentally.

Of course, there were many who would join me that had long known the pleasure of a good, brisk walk, and I spent some pleasant hours of my trip that would ordinarily have been very dreary with this class.

Women Interested, Too.

I was very much surprised at the number of women I met who told me they took long walks daily, and in every instance their healthy appearance proved it. In this respect I must say that their number was not only larger than that of the men I met, but they seemed more anxious. I walk under adverse conditions than the men.

Now, the women can take to walking as exercise as well in Boston as in the smaller cities. All they have to do is to take to the exercise naturally, with the few directions I have given. The directions apply as well for the women as for the men.

But, men and women both, start walking.

DRIVEN BY LOVE FINDS AUTOIST TO END HIS LIFE CLEAR OF BLAME

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Because he found his salary of $1,500 a year insufficient to provide the necessaries of life for his dependent mother and sister, and at the same time leave enough for him to marry the girl he loved, Lieutenant David G. Lindsay of the United States Signal Corps shot and killed himself.

Lindsay was in love with a girl who lived in his birthplace, Philadelphia, but could not hope to marry her while he followed the martial profession.

"Not guilty of any criminal negligence" was the finding of Judge Albert E. Avery of Quincy in the case of Daniel Delaney, who was struck by an auto owned and operated by Harry L. Rice of the Rice, Hutchins Shoe Company on December 25, 1907.

The inquest was ordered January 10, 1908, and the report of the judge was filed yesterday. Delaney was struck by the automobile at about 5:30 p. m. and was later taken to the Quincy Hospital in the machine.

BOY DIES BY BULLET FROM CHUM'S PISTOL

Forgot That the Revolver Was Loaded and Snaps the Trigger.

Inconsolable in his grief, seventeen-year-old John H. Raymond is held to-day at the East Dedham street police station on a charge of manslaughter, as a result of the death of his dearest friend, John P. Sylvester, aged nineteen, from a bullet from the revolver of Raymond last night.

The two boys had been chums for years and were practicing drawing their revolvers quickly from their pockets, following the enlistment of Sylvester in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, when the tragedy occurred. Captain Dugan held Raymond because he believed undue negligence on his part caused the death of his friend.

Sylvester was killed in the room occupied by young Raymond in the lodging house at No. 41 Montgomery street less than two minutes after the pair, in apparently good spirits, had entered the house. Sylvester was shot through the heart and died almost instantly.

According to the story Raymond told Captain Dugan he and the dead boy left the Montgomery street house soon after 7 o'clock for the South Armory on Irvington street. It was the intention of both to enlist, but as Raymond was but seventeen he was not admitted. Both returned to his room.

Sylvester had a 38-calibre revolver and Raymond had a short pattern of the same calibre. Raymond's was loaded but Sylvester's was not.

One or the other suggested that they see who in the event of trouble could draw his weapon first on an opponent. Each of the boys had his revolver in his hip pocket. At a signal both boys would thrust their hands around to their rear pockets and pull their revolvers with precision.

Then it happened that young Sylvester, probably knowing that his weapon was unloaded and unconscious of the fact that Raymond's was loaded, suddenly snapped the trigger of his weapon when the pair drew. The weapons again went back to their pockets, and when they were drawn again the playful dash of the second before suddenly developed into a reality when Raymond, evidently forgetful of the fact that his weapon was loaded, snapped the trigger.

There was a flash and a report and Sylvester reeled in a dazed manner, then, scared by the shock, rushed out into the hallway, where he was met by Mrs. Ella Allen, the landlady, who had heard the shot. He fell into her arms and died.

ROSE STAHL TO REMAIN IN HUB

William Harris, of the firm of Charles Frohman, Rich & Harris, made a special trip to Boston yesterday, before sailing for Europe, and succeeded in extending the time of Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady" at the Park until the end of her season.

Henry B. Harris's production of "The Lion and the Mouse" was booked to open at the Park on Monday, April 20, but Miss Stahl has made such a pronounced hit here that it was decided to allow her to remain and switch "The Lion and the Mouse" to the Hollis Street Theatre, the engagement beginning on Monday, May 11.

"The Chorus Lady" is a wonderful run to its credit. The piece is now in its eighty-fourth consecutive week. Not a performance has been missed since the night of the original production at the Savoy Theatre in New York in September, 1906.

TORPEDO FLEET AHEAD OF TIME

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 9.—The following wireless dispatch was received last night from Magdalena Bay:

"The torpedo flotilla has arrived here a day ahead of scheduled time. The little ships are prepared for any duty, and each got their speed requirements by proving their seaworthiness. All the ships are now painted and ready for their reception in California. The fleet is glad to leave here Saturday."

BOSTON CRAFT GOES ASHORE IN DENSE FOG

Life Savers Go to Aid of Two-Masted Schooner George P. Hudson.

EASTPORT, L. I., April 9.—The five-masted schooner George P. Hudson, Capt. E. C. Gardner, bound from Boston to Baltimore, under ballast, stranded on the beach at Shinnecock early to-day, ten miles to the east of this point. There was a crew of eighteen.

The Hudson lost her bearing in the thick weather which prevailed here last night. She was discovered by the crew of the Shinnecock Life Saving station shortly after she grounded, but, owing to a high sea, it was impossible to launch the lifeboat, and the breeches buoy was brought into use.

By the time the life saving apparatus was brought down on the shore the schooner had moved close in to the shore, and a line was readily shot on board. Notwithstanding the fact of the heavy pounding of the seas, the crew remained on board, the captain declaring the only man to come ashore. The surf is still running strong.

The barefooted savage walked gracefully because he had the use of his foot muscles and toes.

O'Sullivan's Heels of New Rubber fill the chasm between the barefooted savage and the civilized man.

Humphrey O'Sullivan and Edward Payson Weston, two leading exponents of walking.

Walking is conceded to be the healthiest and best exercise.

With the same effort you can walk brisker and easier on Heels of New Rubber.

All sensible people wear them.

When you think of walking, you think of shoes—walking shoes—"tell me what you wear on your feet and I'll tell you how you walk," says Dr. Bradford, the eminent Harvard expert on walking.

Humphrey O'Sullivan says: "Walking shoes should have the soles run full thickness through the shank—and in this respect they are different, if properly constructed, from all other shoes. A whole lot depends upon this, as the shank is the bridge that transfers the weight from the heel to the ball in the motion of walking.

"While most shoes, for appearance sake, have the shanks thin, to impart a light appearance, the rugged walking shoes should never be so econstructed, because the leather that is cut away to give the light appearance is necessary to maintain the strength of the arch, and it does maintain it if it is left there; but when it is cut away the arch quickly flattens down and the foot loses the support it should have in stepping."

You can walk in any old shoe, but you walk a great deal longer distance in proper walking shoes. Get laced walking shoes, have them fitted with heels of new rubber (O'Sullivan's are the best), and you can walk brisker and faster with the same effort. See if that isn't so?

The barefooted savage walked gracefully because he had the use of his foot muscles and his toes, said Dr. Bradford.

In the economy of healthful, rational walking, proper shoes are necessary, and heels of new rubber are essential to proper walking shoes—they supply the elastic cushion the savage found in mother earth; they "bridge the chasm between the savage and civilized man;" they accelerate walking, make it easy, fascinating and delightful. All shoe dealers will supply you. Specify by the name and avoid substitution.

MISS ELKINS' DEMANDS HALT ABRUZZI'S SUIT

American Girl Refuses to Be Bound by Conditions of Italy's Royal House.

WON'T CHANGE RELIGION

WASHINGTON, April 9.—If Miss Katherine Elkins is to become the Duchess of the Abruzzi she does not know it herself, it is declared to-day. No engagement exists as yet, according to those who are in the confidence of the Elkins family. And upon the highest authority it was said to-day that it is Miss Katherine herself who has halted the match.

It is learned that the Duke is still insistent, pleading by letter and cable his love and assurances that if she will marry him Miss Elkins will be given full royal rank in this wife.

But in return Miss Elkins still is answering that she will refuse to be bound by the limitations of Italian royalty, and that while she likes the Duke she likes her freedom better.

She has told him to adjust his status—to get a pledge that if he marries her it will be without limitation or bargain on either side. And at the same time, according to her friends, she has intimated to them that she doesn't believe he will ever be able to meet her terms.

She will not turn Catholic to comply with the religious precepts of Italy's royal house; she will not agree to a cent of monetary settlement upon him. She expressly stipulates that should she consent to wed him she will marry as an untrammeled American girl.

And that is where the situation stands to-day.

Senator Elkins has put the entire matter in his daughter's hands. He believes she eventually will refuse the Duke, and that, his friends say, would please him. But, meanwhile, he is acquiescing in her own course, believing that that plan will be more effective than open opposition in breaking off the much-mooted match.

LANGDON SMITH PASSES AWAY

NEW YORK, April 9.—Langdon Smith, one of the best-known newspaper writers in this country, and for about ten years a member of the staff of the New York American, died last evening of malignant erysipelas at his home, No. 148 Midwood street, Brooklyn. Mr. Smith had been ill about one week.

He was born in Kentucky January 4, 1858, and was educated in Louisville.

Mr. Smith became a member of the American staff when war between the United States and Spain became imminent. He went to Cuba as a war correspondent for the American.

Mr. Smith was known among his professional associates as the "Denver Kid." Before he became engaged in newspaper work he was an expert telegraph operator in Denver, and there the name was given him by fellow-operators.

His best-known work was entitled "On the Pankhandle," but he had also written many short stories which had a considerable vogue. Two of his poems, "Evolution" and "Bessie McCall," have been extensively published and have been frequently reprinted as classics of their kind.

VANDERBILT PLAYED HERO, SAVED LIFE OF MME. RUIZ

EVIDENCE IN DIVORCE SUIT DISCLOSES HOW MILLIONAIRE FIRST MET PRETTY WOMAN.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The last of the evidence in the suit of Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt against her husband will be offered late to-day. Mrs. Vanderbilt, it was reported, would not be present before Referee McClure yesterday, fearing bad weather, but it proved to be the very day she had been waiting for, and she concluded her testimony.

Anderson & Anderson, attorneys for Mr. Vanderbilt, examined Mrs. Vanderbilt briefly, as a deposition containing the main body of her testimony was filed with Referee McClure more than a week ago.

It developed to-day that the wooing of Alfred Vanderbilt and Mme. Flores Ruiz, whose name has been mentioned frequently in connection with Mrs. Vanderbilt's suit for divorce, was a romantic one. Mr. Vanderbilt, as is well known, is an enthusiastic horseman. Mme. Ruiz also is very fond of horses, and frequently rides a fine hack in the parks.

One day Mr. Vanderbilt was out in the park with a broke and four and was making a difficult turn in the road, when a saddle horse on the bridle path attracted his attention. While watching its pace Mr. Vanderbilt saw that the girdle had come loose and that the rider was in peril.

Throwing his reins to the man on the box, Mr. Vanderbilt jumped down just in time to stop the horse and offer his assistance in fastening the girth. The pretty, light-haired woman thanked him with a look, and murmured that Mr. Vanderbilt probably had saved her from serious injury, and perhaps death.

Mr. Vanderbilt wanted to know the name of the woman he had assisted, and there was an exchange of cards. Thus was begun the acquaintance which has brought Mme. Flores Ruiz into prominence.

SINGERS SCORE BIG TRIUMPH IN 'WALKUERE'

Wagner's Opera Attracts Thousands to the Boston Theatre Last Night.

Mmes. Leffler-Burckard, Morena and Kirby-Lunn and MM. Burrian, Van Rooy and Blass, stars of the Heinrich Conried constellation, last night gave one of the most remarkable operatic displays that has ever been witnessed on a Boston stage.

Richard Wagner's "Die Walkuere," in German, was the bill, and the Boston Theatre was packed from pit to rafters.

The orchestra, under the skilful direction of Gustav Mahler, was as perfect as any ever heard here.

Mme. Leffler-Burckard scored one of the greatest triumphs of the present season in her portrayal of Brunnhilde. Voice, acting and everything else were perfect. Mme. Berta Morena as Sieglinde and Mme. Kirby-Lunn as Fricka covered themselves with glory.

M. Van Rooy is one of the best baritones that Conried or anyone else has ever persuaded Boston to hear. His Wotan last night was excellent. M. Burrian as Siegmund and M. Blass as Hunding completed the male trio.

In the lesser roles Mmes. Alten, Weed, Woehning, Fornia, Mattfield, Wakefield and Jacoby did excellent work.

At yesterday's matinee M. Enrico Caruso scored a great personal triumph in his portrayal of Manrico in Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Mozart's "Don Giovanni" in Italian is scheduled for to-night, with Mme. Emma Eames and M. Scotti in the principal roles.

A LITTLE HORSE TALK.

Dr. Frank J. Sullivan will give a lecture on common diseases of the horse, at the Revere House, on Friday evening, at 8 p. m. This is one of the free lectures given under the management of the Work-Horse Parade Association on successive Friday evenings. Everybody interested in horses is invited, and especially owners, stablemen and drivers of work horses.

ARTIST EARLE AND 'AFFINITY' BRIDE RETURN

Married in Italy After Divorce in France, They Arrive on the Friedrich der Grosse.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle and Miss Julia Kuttner, after having been married in a small town near Rome, Italy, following a secret divorce obtained by Mrs. Earle in Paris, arrived from Naples on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Friedrich der Grosse to-day.

The sensational directnoues of the marriage of Earle and his "soul mate," the original "affinity," were made by friends in New York who know of these occurrences and also of the departure of the two from Italy.

The new Mrs. Earle refused absolutely to discuss her marriage to Earle, and even hid in her cabin until Earle had arranged that they both leave the vessel at the Hoboken pier by the steerage gangway. Earle himself was an unwilling contentite, as his new wife. The couple would not even say whether or not they expected to take up their residence in New York city.

Their manifests declared, however, that they were going to Monroe, N. Y., where Earle has a home. The baggage of the couple was also booked for Monroe.

LABOR SEEKS COMMON GOOD WITH CAPITAL

—Norman E. McPhail.

The awakening of capital and labor to the necessity of finding a common ground for the mutual good of all was one of the striking facts brought out by President Norman E. McPhail of Typographical Union No. 13 before a large audience of Dorchester citizens at the monthly meeting of the Nies Club in the Stanton Avenue M. E. Church Hall last evening.

Mr. McPhail clearly showed that the man outside of labor organizations is benefited in high wages and improved conditions secured by the unions.

The speaker also outlined the good work being done by organized labor in providing homes for the injured and sick and a system of pensions for the aged.

Mr. McPhail said the aims of labor unions, summed up, were to raise the standard of wages to a fair basis, to reduce working hours to a reasonable limit and to improve conditions under which work is being done.

The president of the club, Eben W. Rumstead, presided. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. McPhail for his address.

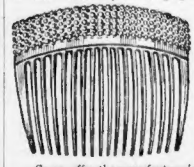
Real $2.00 Back Combs

200 Dozen None Worth Less than $1.00

29c

On Sale Friday and Saturday While Any are Left

We are not in the habit of advertising $2.00 values for 29c, but here is a case where we have to do it in order to stick to the truth. Duplicates of these combs positively will be found in other stores at prices ranging from $1.00 up to $2.00.



There is nothing the matter with the combs. Every one is absolutely perfect, but the manufacturer got scared, thought he had too much stock on hand, had visions of having to close down his plant temporarily, and rather than do that he sold us this lot of combs for a mere song.

So we offer the manufacturer's entire stock of fancy mounted combs at less than 25 per cent. of the actual cost to make them. They are highly polished, neatly mounted and set with every known colored stone as well as rhinestones, also gold inlaid combs, every imaginable shape and style. There are 400 different designs to select from, with only a few of any particular kind. While they last 29c. Henry Siegel Co.—Main Floor.

LOCOMOTIVE BLOWS UP; 3 TRAINMEN HURT

BRAKEMAN'S LEAP FATAL

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., April 9.—Two trainmen were badly scalded and another received a fractured skull when a freight engine on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad blew up to-day at Wheeler's Farms, three miles below Derby. The locomotive was practically destroyed, and three forward cars of the thirty-five loaded cars comprising the train were demolished.

When the explosion occurred some of the trainmen jumped, and one of them, James Tompleton, a brakeman, of New Haven, suffered a fractured skull. He was sent to the New Haven Hospital for treatment after having his wounds temporarily dressed. Although badly scalded, Harry W. Howes, the fireman of the train, of Winsted, walked from the scene of the accident to Naugatuck Junction, from which place he was taken to the hospital here. Frank Gilbert, the engineer, of Waterbury, was scalded about the hands, and was taken to the hospital at Ansonia.

The cause of the accident is not known. The wreck caused traffic on all lines of the road to be blocked for several hours, and all trains were sent around via New Haven.

RANSACK RICH LYNN HOME; ATTACK WOMAN

BURGLARS FRIGHTENED AWAY BY REVOLVER SHOTS; STRUGGLE WITH POLICE.

Special to the Boston American.

LYNN, April 9.—After ransacking the luxurious home of Mrs. Mary Fenton on Boston street early to-day, starting to overpower Mrs. Fenton and her maids, Miss Mary McVann, and then being frightened away by revolver shots fired by Mrs. Fenton's nephew, Fenton Hopkins, two armed burglars jumped through a dining room window and ran plump into two policemen who were hurrying to the scene. One of the fugitives, weakened by loss of blood from a gash received in plunging through the window, was caught. The other escaped toward the Saugus River after being fired upon, but as the two fugitives broke cover and came out from the Fenton gateway and started across Boston street to the open field opposite.

Disappears in Darkness.

The man in the lead, evidently, abruptly plunged into the darkness enveloping the field and disappeared in the direction of the bushes skirting the Saugus River. The other man, who had been growing weaker from loss of blood, nearly collapsed when the officers appeared, and was an easy capture. He revived later, however, and tried to put up a fight when the patrol wagon was called. He was overpowered and kept under close guard till locked in a station cell.

He was recognized as Charles McIntyre. He had a loaded revolver on him. The police think he has a record.

Mrs. Fenton and her maid, though badly frightened, were not injured, and will probably be able to appear in court to-day against McIntyre. Meanwhile, busy search is being made for the man who escaped.

Pursued by Hopkins, the burglars ran into the dining room without stopping for their bundle of silver and plunged through the closed dining room window, taking glass, sash and all.

One of them, Charles McIntyre, ripped an ugly gash in one arm on an edge of broken glass and was bleeding profusely when he landed on the turf and started after his fleeing companion.

Meanwhile the two shots fired by Hopkins had been heard by Night Sergeant Wilson Thorne and Patrolman Frank Peart, who were walking up from the upper end of Boston street near the reservoir. The sergeant and patrolman started down the street on the run, and came in sight of the broad lawn of the Fenton place just as the two fugitives broke cover and came out from the Fenton gateway and started across Boston street to the open field opposite.

Pack Up $700 in Silverware.

The burglars entered by forcing a rear window. They went through the dining room, packed up about $700 worth of solid silver and then started to the upstairs chamber, where Mrs. Fenton slept with her maid, Miss McVann.

One of the burglars grabbed Mrs. Fenton by the throat and the other started for the maid to keep her silent. Both women managed to scream, and the noise roused Fenton Hopkins, the nephew, who was asleep in an adjoining room.

Hopkins seized his revolver and fired two shots through the open window of his chamber to give an alarm, then rushed into his aunt's room just in time to see the two burglars dart out and down the front stairway.

21 NEW CASES IN EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID TO-DAY

Health Boards Run Down Source of Trouble to Supply of Milk.

PLAN THOROUGH PROBE

Twenty-one new cases of typhoid fever in the Jamaica Plain district, making a total of 210 cases there, have been reported to the Boston Board of Health up to 10 o'clock to-day. Eleven of the twenty-one new cases have been sent to the hospital, making a total of ninety-one typhoid patients now in the Boston hospitals.

Because of the continued typhoid epidemic the supply of milk in a Southboro Farm, where the infection has been traced, has been shut off. All of the 210 Jamaica Plain typhoid patients obtained their milk from two dealers whose supply came from the Southboro farm.

Health Commissioner Michael W. Norris is in charge of the investigation of the origin of the typhoid epidemic and has a corps of men running down the cause of the infection. He is having tests made to-day at the board's bacteriological laboratory of the milk of the men who handled the milk in transit and also of the farm hands in Southboro.

Have Situation in Hand.

The water on the Southboro farm has been tested under Commissioner Norris's supervision and found to be free from infection. It is believed that the disease sprang from the way the milk is handled.

Commissioner Norris said to-day to an AMERICAN reporter: "I believe that the high water mark of the typhoid epidemic has been reached. Although twenty-one new cases have been reported, that is a decrease of seventeen cases over the previous day's record. We have the situation well in hand and will stop the cause of the infection right off."

Dr. Thomas H. Shea, chief medical officer of the Boston Board of Health, said: "I have absolutely no doubt but that the infection of the milk occurred outside of Greater Boston. I place no stock in the contention of the State Board of Health that it became infected after it left the farm.

"All of the cases have come from milk supplied to Jamaica Plain people by two milk dealers. Both men obtained their milk from the same farm in Southboro. They have nothing in common, and I believe that this proves conclusively that the trouble is on the farm."

Trace Source of Trouble.

Dr. Charles Harrington, chief of the State Board of Health, said to-day to an AMERICAN reporter:

"We are doing out utmost to get at the source of the infection of the milk. Two men have been at work since last Friday trying to find where the milk became infected. We expect results to-day.

"They have practically found who and what is responsible for the infection, though we cannot make their work public just yet. I think that the typhoid fever situation is well under control, and no more serious outbreaks are anticipated.

"Outside of Greater Boston, the typhoid fever situation is satisfactory. The State at large is not greatly troubled by the disease.

"There is no clash between the State Board and the Boston Health Board over the typhoid cases. We have no trouble with them. They have their idea; we have ours. I do not believe that the milk became infected on the Southboro farm. It probably originated either in transit or in Boston."

ENDS HIS OWN LIFE AFTER KILLING PETS

PROVIDENCE, April 9.—Marcus Bellows, sixty-five, of Gloucester, R. I., committed suicide early last night or early this morning by cutting his throat with a carving knife, after he had first killed his pet dog and cat in the same way. Despondency is given as the cause.

HUGHES RENEWS FIGHT AGAINST RACE TRACK RING

TO CALL SPECIAL ELECTION IN NIAGARA VACANCY—SENDS MESSAGE TO ASSEMBLY.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 9.—Governor Hughes will issue a call for a special election in the forty-seventh senatorial district, comprised of Orleans and Niagara counties, to be held on May 12, to elect a successor to the late Senator Franchot. The call will be issued to-day or to-morrow. The chief object is to give the Senate its full membership of fifty-one, so another tie vote on the race track bills, as the one of yesterday, will be impossible.

Governor Hughes to-day sent a special message to the Legislature urging the necessity of passing the anti-race track bills. The message reiterates the Governor's contention that gambling at race tracks is not carried on through evasion of the law, but because of the law, as it now exists.

The message further recommends the legislation providing for direct nominations and for laws facilitating the construction of new subways.

The message suggests the advisability of creating a commission to investigate the methods of Wall street.

Senator Raines moved that the portion of his message relating to race tracks should be laid on the table with the Agnew-Hart bills, and the remaining portions be referred to the appropriate committees.

It is generally believed that the special election in the Forty-seventh district will be the hottest fight ever waged in the State over the election of a Senator, as the fate of the anti-gambling bills would hang in the balance and tremendous influence would be brought to bear.

SLAYER FOUND GUILTY.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 9.—Antonio Rozzo, aged twenty-five years, who has been on trial before Judge Stearns in the Supreme Court, charged with murder by stabbing to death of Natale DeMarco on November 28 last, has been found guilty by the jury of manslaughter.

Why Rengo Reduces Fat

Anti-Fats and Starvation Diet Result in Wrecking of the System.

Fat as a general rule comes from the failure of the digestive organs to do their work properly. It may come also from over-eating. In these cases there is always some part of the food eaten which is not eliminated as it should be, but is made up in the form of fat and sent by the blood to various parts of the body. This accumulation continues constantly until within a comparatively short time, the heart becomes incased in a layer or coating of fat. The heart seems to be one of the first vital organs to become affected in this manner.

The fact, therefore, in cases of fat, is not properly assimilated—that is, part of the food is retained by the body which should not be retained, and part which should be retained is thrown out. This does not always mean dropsysia or indigestion for one may have a very healthy stomach and yet health to grow fat, through no apparent cause.

It is evident to anyone, then, that to try to starve away the fat is both ridiculous and dangerous. It may or may not have the desired effect, but what is almost certain is that a starvation diet will give a shock to the whole system and weaken it. The victim then becomes a subject for the sanitarium or becomes an invalid. The same thing happens by trying to use anti-fats, remedies that positively stop digestion, something which is absurd, and which sooner or later results in a breakdown of the whole system and consequent illness. Bright's Disease, Neurasthenia, Gastritis and Neuritis may quickly follow such treatments.

Tropical fruit is and has been known for years as a remarkable regulator of the system. By a persistent use of such a regulator the body will assume an absolutely normal condition, being neither too thin nor too large, and preserving the balance of all the organs, making the fortunate man or woman who uses it healthy and happy.

That is what Rengo does. It contains a tropical fruit mixture, which has this faculty of perfectly assimilating food taken into the body. That is the secret. It has resulted in making Rengo a success as a fat reducer and a health builder, and a godsend to all fat people.

Rengo is safe. It not only reduces your weight to normal, but it increases your health.

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail, prepaid, by The Rengo Co., 3212 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.

GRANITE MEN WORK UNDER NEW TERMS

James Duncan Makes Statement Regarding the Situation at Quincy.

That the Quincy Granite workers are working to-day under the agreement signed some days ago, and that they will continue to do so, is the statement made to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter by James Duncan, member of the International Executive Board of the International Granite Cutters' Association of America.

Mr. Duncan declared that a mistake had been made in the statement that the Quincy granite manufacturers had repudiated the agreement signed last week between the representatives of the union and those from the manufacturers. It was claimed that the manufacturers based their refusal to comply with the terms agreed to on certain alleged facts which Mr. Duncan declares are to exist.

Under New Agreement.

"We are working now under the agreement," he said, "as signed some days ago, and shall most assuredly continue to do so, unless the manufacturers stop it through legal action."

Mr. Duncan said that it was incorrect that before the recent conference, which ended in the framing of the agreement, the representatives had agreed that a majority vote of the six members of the conference committee, three from the manufacturers and three from the union, would carry any proposition, that the union had rolled up the vote of William S. Alexander of Barre, Vt., to carry their points, and that the Quincy manufacturers had objected to the so-called "closed shop" agreement of the conference.

"These are the facts," said Mr. Duncan. "The conference had agreed that any vote, to be binding, should consist of a majority of the representatives on each side. For instance, if three union men and one of the manufacturers voted together, that vote would not be binding, as a majority of the manufacturers had not voted for it.

Two-thirds Vote Prevailed.

"The Quincy manufacturers have always considered Mr. Alexander as an authority on the kind of matters discussed at this conference, and were fully agreed to his serving on the conference and also acting as chairman. D. L. McLaren, another member of the committee, representing the New England Granite Works, with quarries in Concord, N. H., and at Stanstead, Rogers of Rockport, Mass., of the Rockport Granite Company, a large employer himself, was the third member of the committee. The makeup of the committee was above suspicion.

"Nothing was agreed upon without, at least, a two-thirds vote. The open or closed shop was not discussed at all, for the per cent. of the journeymen granite cutters in this continent belong to our union. There are not more than fifteen non-members of the 1,500 cutters, polishers and [illegible] sharpeners."

IRISH LEAGUE WINS SUPPORT FOR HOME RULE

Thousands Join Ranks for Support of the Parliamentary Party.

PLAN FOR BIG CONVENTION

The call of the United Irish League of America to the support of John Redmond and the Irish Parliamentary party has been instant and deserved. Not only moral support, but financial aid has been generously given in the aid of the Irish party for Irish self-government. Within the past few days not less than $6,462 has been received by the National Treasurer, T. B. Fitzpatrick. The ranks of the United Irish League in America are growing with new recruits who are flocking in from all quarters.

It is only a few weeks since National President Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia issued a call for subscriptions. His home city of Philadelphia, as usual, is in the van in the work of raising funds. Two contributions of $2,500 each, or a total of $5,000, have been received from the Quaker City recently by National Treasurer Fitzpatrick.

Massachusetts, however, is rivalling Pennsylvania in its activity in support of the movement, especially Boston, which has run Philadelphia closely for honors since the establishment of the organization.

Biennial Convention.

Within a very few weeks the branches throughout the country will be called upon to make arrangements for the next biennial national convention, which is to take place within the next six months. The time and place for the holding of the convention will be soon decided on.

Regular meetings of the organization will be held from this time on, especially in view of the important happenings taking place in Parliament and in Ireland. The change in the membership, taken in connection with the decisive local option favor rule by the House of Commons a few days ago, is likely to have an important bearing on the national issue.

While in the past two weeks the league, through W. Bourke Cockran, a member of the national executive committee, has succeeded in getting the United States government to agree to keep the trade activities of exports and imports between the United States and Ireland altogether isolated separately from those of England.

Oppose Treaty With Britain.

The league has also taken active part in opposition to the proposed Anglo-American treaty, and has had resolutions antagonistic to it introduced into the Senate by various United States Senators. Vice-President Fairbanks was the first member of the Senate to introduce the league's resolutions, and his example has been followed by Senators Gore, Lodge, Briggs, Frye, Knox and others.

The league in Boston is engaged in arranging for a demonstration in some theatre or public hall illustrating some of the many advances made as a result of the work of the Irish party in recent years.

ELKS TO-NIGHT AT HIPPODROME

Tonight is to be Elks' night at the Hippodrome in Mechanics Hall. All the seats reserved for the Elks have been taken up and there has been a good sale of the seats remaining open to the public, though there are still some seats left.

The feature of last night's performance was the presence of several veteran firemen's associations and a hose coupling contest by two-man teams.

The vets came from Chelsea, Gloucester, South Framingham, Natick, Winchester, Arlington, Woburn and other nearby cities and towns.

The hose-coupling contest excited much amusement. Each team of two men had to rise from bed at the signal, fasten the hose to a hydrant, run out the full length of hose and carry the nozzle over a given line. Captain F. E. Pierce of Chelsea was in charge of the door.

There was a large attendance yesterday afternoon from the Maple Club of Dorchester, a young people's organization.

JAIL BREAKERS HALTED BY GIRL

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., April 9.—Miss Zora Hanson, seventeen years old, daughter of Sheriff Hanson, interrupted jail delivery during a storm early this morning.

She was awakened by the storm and, glancing out he window, saw prisoners climbing down past her window. She seized the feet of a man and held on while she screamed to her parents.

Her mother went to her assistance and held to the prisoner while Sheriff Hanson rushed into the cell room and prevented seven prisoners from leaving. Six prisoners had escaped through a window from which a bar had been pried. Four of the fugitives are negroes.

Today's Lesson in The American's Course for Salespeople

No. 20

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

When a sale is closed—that is, when the customer is apparently satisfied that he or she has secured the article desired—make out the SALESCHECK IMMEDIATELY AND COMPLETE THE SALE.

Do not show or suggest anything as a substitute for the article purchased. Finish with the customer right then, unless it is to endeavor to sell something entirely supplementary and additional to the first purchase.

An instance to illustrate:

A customer was looking at dressing tables in a furniture store. A number had been shown and one was selected as suiting the customer, when the clerk, who had a fatal gift of being "gabby," went on talking as he started to make out the check and mentioned another style of table which they used to carry with the mirror placed a little differently and which "some people liked, but he did not consider at all desirable."

The customer, one of the wavering kind, immediately began to have doubts about the selection that was shown her and wound up by saying that she would come back again. SHE NEVER DID, because she probably bought elsewhere.

The salesman had the sale, but lost it because he "wobbled" at the finish.

Next Lesson in Saturday's American.

Cut out these "lessons." Every Sunday we print a review and self-examination. A good plan is to clip the lessons and reviews out and paste them in a scrapbook. You will then have a manual on salesmanship that you could not buy for a good many dollars. It may be worth hundreds to you in increased salary.

RIVAL LINERS IN OCEAN RACE

NEW YORK, April 9.—After a race extending clear across the ocean, in which neither vessel was able to obtain a lead of more than two miles, and with first one and then the other leading, the rival trans-Atlantic liners Teutonic of the White Star line and Caronia of the Cunard company, arrived here to-day. The Teutonic won the race of nearly 3,000 miles by 1 hour and 26 minutes.

Both steamers left Daunt's Rock within forty minutes of each other.

The greatest interest in the race was manifested by the passengers on the two steamers, and many bets were made on the race.

AUTHORIZES 2 BATTLESHIPS

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Authorizing the construction of two, instead of four, battleships, and eight, instead of four, submarine torpedo boats, the Naval Appropriation bill, carry a total appropriation of $103,857,518, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, was reported to the House by Chairman Foss of the Committee on Naval Affairs yesterday.

In a minority report Captain Richmond P. Hobson, Representative from Alabama, recommends the construction of four battleships, as recommended by the General Board of the navy, the Secretary of the Navy and the President.

Provision is made in the bill for the enlistment of 7,500 men.

The appropriation for arming and equipping the naval militia is increased to $100,000.

$100,000 FIRE RAGES ALL NIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 9.—Fire which raged all last night and threatened destruction to the business section of this city did $100,000 damage to the Colonial building.

Assistance from Dayton and Cambridge City helped to keep the flames from spreading. Fire Chief Miller said six of his men were overcome by smoke, but all will recover.

BROKER ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

CHICAGO, April 9.—Lorenzo D. Kneeland, a wealthy retired broker, former senior member of the firm of Kneeland, Clement & Curtis, committed suicide to-day in his apartments in the Bryson apartment building by firing a bullet through his brain. Mr. Kneeland had been ill for some years, and lately had become despondent.

YOU CAN PROFIT BY WHAT OTHERS HAVE LEARNED

EVERYONE IN BOSTON HAS A RIGHT TO HIS OWN OPINION.

While everyone has a right to his own opinion, yet it is wise to always consider what others think and profit by their experiences.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average American, as indigestion, and it is well for us to give fair consideration to what others think about this remarkable affliction.

Many people, from their own experience, are positive that Mi-o-na stomach tablets are an absolute cure for indigestion and the many disagreeable symptoms that follow this disease, such as distress after eating, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, flatulence, nervousness and debility.

The way Mi-o-na is sold, on a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures, shows plainly the value of this remedy. There will be no charge whatever for Mi-o-na unless you are satisfied that it has relieved you of indigestion.

Mi-o-na wakens up the stomach muscles and strengthens them so that they take care of all the food you eat in a natural, healthy way, without pain or distress after meals.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mirandy on Marriage as a Keeley Cure

—By—
Dorothy Dix

"De odder night," observed Miranda, "Brer Jenkins wholly did preach a heavy searchin' sermon on de noble an' uplyftin influence of women. Hit suttinly was a grand discourse, an' he prognosticated 'bout how wives led deir husbands on to lead de better life by deir gentleness an' sweetness an' patience an' lovely dispositions, ontel dere wasn't a woman in de congregation dat didn't begin to feel de pin feathers in her angel wings sprouting, nor a married man dat dast look his wife in de face.

"'If hit warn't for woman,' says Brer Jenkins, a-pounding de cushion on de pulpit ontel de dust dey lifted up out of hit, 'of hit warn't for woman, what would we be?'

"'Sinful, de gyardens of Eden,' answers Brer Simeon, what had just waked up an' hadn't caught de drift of what de preacher was sayin', but Brer Jenkins let on lak he don't hear him, an' he axes agin, 'Of hit warn't for woman, what would we be? What would we be of de good Lawd hadn't sont us nothere? What would we do widout our wives?'

"Hallelujah Holler"

"At dat Brer Ben feich a groan, but des he let hit out he ketched Sis 'Tempy's eye an' he changed hit into a cough, say, 'Yes, Lawd, dat's so, sho!' an' den wid dat Brer Jenkins go on, 'Dough we may differ in de matter of hit warn't for de sisteren?' An' at dat Sis Sallny Sue fetch a hallelujah holler, an' den Brer Jenkins warmed up to his subject, an' say dat hit's de women dat pushes along de good wuk, an' say dat a hundred times in a lot better dan single men, an' dat de statistics of 'vice an' crime showed dat eighty per cent. of de drunkards is ole bachelors.

"'Dat night,' as me an' Ike was a-going home, Brer Isham an' Sis Hannah cotch up wid us, an' Sis Sue say:

"'How did you lak de promulgatin' of de discourse to-night, Sis Mirandy?' she axes.

"'Hit segasunied wid my own belief, Sis Hannah,' 'spons I; 'Brer Jenkins sholy is got a grip on de truth.'

"By de Wayside"

"'Huh!' snorts Brer Isham, what is known to fall now an' den by de wayside when he mixes up a little too free wid de red eye; 'Brer Jenkins is sholy a-barkin' at de wrong tree when he 'lows dat single men is de ones what to do bones dan married men, for many is de time dat I is escorted a gentleman home what couldn't walk himself, an' he is wept on my shut front an' told me wid his own lips dat he was drove to drink by de way his wife treated him.'

"'Hit don't take much to shoo a man in at de front do's of a saloon,' says I, sort of casual, 'but hit takes a twenty-mule team to yank him out at de back do'.'

"'As for me,' spons Ike in a pussyfied tone of voice, 'I believes in de word dat Brer Jenkins says 'bout eighty per cent. of de men dat gits drunk bein' bachelors, for after a man gits married in dese times, when nah, 'does you believe in a wife's influence over her husband?'

"'Hit depends on how much muscle she's got to have longery shut shoes, he dont have enough lef' out of his pay envelope on a Saturday night to git drunk on. Nawsir, maternosh sho'ly is a means of grace, because de straight an' narrow way is de only way dat he's got de price to travel.'

"'Amen,' sclaims Brer Simeon. 'When I gits through payin' de rent an' de grocery I ain't got enough lef' to even drink to luck on.'

"'Sis Mirandy,' inquires Sis Hannah, 'does you believe in a wife's ele-vatin' an' restrainin' influence on a husband?'

"'What I means is dis,' goes on Sis Hannah; 'does you believe dat a gal dat marries a man dat is got de rank habit, an' shoots craps, an' chases after every straight front yuller gal dat come along, is gwine to be able to reform him into bein' one of dese hush fireside ornaments or is she gwine to have to take to washin' to support him, an' git up an' open de do' for him when he can't find de key-hole along 'bout 3 o'clock in de mawnin'?'

Don't Change Taste

"'Maternosh,' says I, 'don't change nobody's taste. De man dat had a thust befo' marriage is gwine to have a mouf lak a brick kiln afterwards. De man what was handy wid de leetle bottle is gwine to have a hanker after 'em after marriage. De man wid a rovin' eye for a good looker ain't gwine to lose his sight because he is married.

"'Maternosh don't wuk no miracles. Leastways hit don't by hitself, but,' says I, wid a meanin' glance at Ike, 'coupled wid a strong-handed woman dat knowed what she was gwine to stand from a husband an' what she warn't gwine to stand, I is seed hit do mo' reformin' in 'bout a couple of minutes dan de Salvation Armyers could in a year.

"'I ain't a namin' no names, Sis Hannah, but I knowed a case of a woman what married a lakly young buck dat thought because he got mar-ried warn't no reason why he should go out of de wild oats business. So after he'd been married 'bout tree months one night he say to his wife he believes dat he'll mek one stroll down de street a minute to see a gal friend, an' dat was de last dat she see of him ontel a long towards mawnin', when she heered somebody a-weavin' 'round' de do tryin' to get in.

"'But was dis noble an' devoted wife a-sittin' up for him, a-watchin' an' a-waitin' an' a-prayin' for his safe return? She was. Sis Hannah, but she didn't wasted no time in tears an' prayers, because she didn't see no sense in 'em. Instead, de Lawd 'bout a thing dat she had de strength to take keer of herself.

A Changed Man

"'Nawsir, she was a-watchin' an' a-waitin' for him wid de rollin' pin in one hand an' de stove lifter in de odder,an' a couple of flat irons handy; an' when her husband got out of de horspital he was a changed man, Sis Hannah.

"'Assum, hit was one of de mos' complete cases of reform on record, because de husband know'd dat to dis day dere is de same welcome waitin' for him ef he was to undertake to do any side-steppin' along.

"'Hit's a great thing to think of a wife's influence over her husband,' sighs Sis Hannah.

"'Dat's so,' 'spons I; 'Yas, Lawd, de fear of his wife is de beginnin' of virtue wid many a male.'

DOROTHY DIX.

BOSTON AMERICAN
DAILY SHORT STORY

The Mills of the Gods

ON May 25, 1885, an American tourist entered the little inn near the Italian frontier, close to one of the most famous peaks of the Alps.

He was dressed as the conventional mountain tourist, seemed rather excited and was reckless with his money, which he counted in the sight of everybody before his ordered a glass of beer and sat down at a corner table.

Here he once more counted his pile of gold pieces, emptied his wallet, and in a loud voice asked if he could have a guide. At first no one answered, but after a while the old cross-eyed Beppo stood up and went over to the stranger.

"To the Icicle," the American said curtly.

"To the Icicle," Beppo repeated thoughtfully, exchanging furtive glances with the others in the room.

The "Icicle" had a very bad reputation. Many rash tourists had tried to climb the ice-covered steep cone, but they had always given it up and had returned frozen and trembling.

"When do you want to start?" Beppo asked slowly and hesitatingly.

"To-night."

"To-night? The night is dark and the road dangerous."

"To-night!" shouted the American, impatiently. "If you do not want to go I'll be money, and I shall pay you well," shall go alone."

Beppo hesitated a moment, while everyone looked at him, then he emptied his glass and said:

"I will go."

The American buttoned his short coat and tied a heavy woollen muffler around his neck.

"Come along!" he said, and pointed to the door with his cane, the handle of which was carved in shining ivory to represent a grinning human skull.

The next morning Beppo returned alone. The American had fallen into a chasm.

Soon people from all over the neighborhood began to talk and avoid the company of Beppo, who, after awhile, stayed in his cabin.

The American had carried what appeared a fortune to these people, and Beppo's reputation had never been of the best, but Beppo lived as he had always done, without any show of money, and brought up his brother's little daughter, who had come to him when still a baby. The ugly rumors died away, and after awhile tongues ceased wagging.

Years passed, and the little girl grew up to be a handsome maid, who was loved and wooed by many.

Never Seen Again

But still the ghost of the American walked. There he was at the bottom of the precipice, dead and cold, with bleached bones, picked clean by bird and worm, and alongside of him among the dead bones was the gold, the shining, everlasting gold which to the poor seemed a fortune.

There and night a young fellow tried to climb down into the abyss to get the treasure. He was never seen again, and more horrors gathered around the "Icicle" than ever. White rose and buttonhole grew pale.

Then a young man came to the neighborhood and began to woo Beppo's niece. He was a valiant, handsome fellow, with rimmed eyes, iron and bright courage. His name was Giovanni, and from his first childhood he had been famous for his mountains. Bianca soon put her heart to him. He himself had known poverty and hunger, and his greatest wish was to get a man without money.

Giovanni stood, downcast and crushed, but suddenly his eyes brightened.

"Good! God is what you pay me, Beppo, to make me your son-in-law. Good, small find gold. Dead men need no money," he said, and left.

Beppo looked after him thoughtfully, but did not call him back, though he well understood it was the fear of poverty that drove the young man away.

Giovanni came into the inn. His blood was boiling, his cheeks were burning with fever and his hair was damp with sweat. He was much. When he left his eyes were cold, his walk stiff. Dead men need no money, who never stumbles, but mercilessly marches over everything.

As he went out he turned around in the door and said in a strange tone: "To-morrow we will celebrate the wedding with the gold of the American. If not, drink a glass in memory of me."

Tempted!

"Everybody in the village knows you have been in the chasm and brought back the money. Had I gone down the gold would have been yours now, anyway. To you the gold belongs; take it and be happy with Bianca."

Giovanni stared at him in horror, but he felt less determined. He stood on the edge of the precipice in the cold, clear light of the moon. Nothing stirred except a movement of the lines in his face. But the struggle lasted only a moment.

"Leave me, you devil!" he shouted, "do not tempt me."

He lifted his arms as if to drive Beppo away. In his one hand he held a knife with a handle of ivory, formed like a human skull.

Beppo's eyes seemed ready to drop from their sockets. Horrified, he stared at the knife.

"Are you there again?" he cried. "Go away or I will throw you down into the precipice once more."

Beppo made a rattle lump, but Giovanni evaded him and he fell over the edge down to the bottom of the abyss.

Giovanni stood mute with terror, then he looked at the money in the bag Beppo had dropped.

"There is blood on that money," he cried, and threw the bag down to where the body of the murderer lay across the bleached bones of his victim.

EASTER IN THE TYROL

CHILDREN living in this province of Austria follow bands of musicians, who go through the streets and up the hills beside singing Easter carols and playing on guitars. The children carry lighted torches, and when a song is finished run up to the doors and knock on them. The doors open quickly and there stand the housemothers with lots of beautifully colored eggs for the young people.

THE MAN OR THE MONEY!
Which of the Two Would YOU Choose?

MME. ANNA GOULD — MRS. A. G. VANDERBILT

You Pay the Money and You Take Your Choice

MRS. ALFRED GWYNNE VANDERBILT seems to be the first important answer on the "man" side of the question. "The man or the money, which?"

The question was propounded relative to the predicament of Mme. Anna Gould, who is confronted with a loss of $7,500,000 if she weds Prince Helie de Sagan. It is practically settled that if the first American princess decides to wed again it will cost her one-half of her fortune of $15,000,000.

Mme. Gould is evidently preparing to reject the money and elect the man. She values the man more than the money. Present indications are that she will wed the Prince de Sagan, even at so tremendous a money sacrifice.

Next comes Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, whose husband offers her $5,000,000 as a condition she does not oppose a suit for divorce.

The question was up to Mrs. Vanderbilt in a little different form—should she take the money and let go of the man, or should she reject the money and fight for her wedded state.

She seems inclined to take the $5,000,000. She chooses the money.

Which would YOU take, the man or the money?

MORE TROUBLE FOR THE MANICURE LADY

By William F. Kirk

"GEORGE," said the Manicure Lady, with a touch of genuine pathos in her silvery voice, "Wilfred ain't going to help free Ireland after all. He has gave it up."

"That's hard lines for Ireland," said the Head Barber. "I suppose Wilfred got cold feet?"

"Nothing like that," replied the Manicure Lady. "Wilfred was keen to raise the army and go over to the little green island, but his army couldn't see it that way.

"Wilfred's got a new scheme now. He's going to write sketches for them vaudeville people. Every week he's made to show he watches the vaudeville acts and keeps telling me that he can write better dope with his left hand, and he ain't no left-hander, either.

"He started a sketch last night for Mister Sothern and the leading lady, called 'Driven to Their Doom.' It's all about a couple that was happily married in France and got along fine until the Count spent too much money. Then a Prince comes on the scene and breaks up the happy home.

"Then there'll have to be another actor besides Sothern and his leading lady," said the Head Barber.

Supe Plays Prince

"THAT part will be all right," said the Manicure Lady. "Wilfred says he can get a supe to play the Prince do nicely.

"You know how crazy Wilfred is for the poetry thing, and all through this piece there is poetry. Most of the time when he's supposed to be spoke by the Count after his wife has died and sailed across the ocean. The Count says:

"Say, darling, say
What you can for me far away
I ask not that you will be true,
Dear
One week from to-day
My yacht sails, too,
Do you think you could slip me
a few, dear?

"That's the rest stuff," declared the Head Barber. "Now and then that brother of yours shows a real flash of form. That poetry ain't much good in vaudeville sketches. What they usually want is good jokes and sure-fire stuff."

"Wait a minute, wait a minute!" said the Manicure Lady. "It ain't all poetry. Wilfred has wrote a great scene called 'A Evening at the Court of King George.' The Prince is all dressed up in fine evening clothes, and comes into the dining room, I. U. E. to meet the Countess. Wilfred says 'I. U. E.' means 'Left Upper Entrance,' but he has changed it for this sketch to mean 'In Love.'

A Great Scene!

"THE Prince and the Countess has a great scene. Just then in comes three reporters and a photographer. The reporters and the photographer waits till the meal is all over, so they can take a flashlight picture of the Countess paying the check. Don't you think that would be a great scene, George?"

"I don't know," said the Head Barber. "As far as I go, it strikes me the public is pretty well sick and tired of all this Countess and Princess dope, and don't want to hear any more about it any more than they want to know at what table d'hote restaurant Kreyps likes to get a drink up the red ink.

"I'd tell Wilfred to throw that sketch of his in the discard and write a simple little pastoral sketch with plenty of cows in it, and a few hired hands to see that the cows don't go dry. That's the kind of sketches I like. I hate them problem things.

"When I go home to-night," said the Manicure Lady, "I am going to tell Wilfred just what you said, but I know it will be an awful blow to the poor boy. He has just set his heart on this society play stuff. I'd rather have the boy take the judgment of a barber, he is that sensitive that anything I tell him will make him crumple up and quit."

Can't Help It

"I CAN'T help it," said the Head Barber. "When I like a play or a sketch I am always there with the big hand, but when I don't like it I am no quicker to say so because he has fallen with his face in the gravel so often that I can't pin my faith on him, even though he is your brother. I'll take it all right and give a good cuss or one—the trade of living off his folks.

"If he gets that sketch written for Mr. Sothern and gets Mr. Sothern to accept it, I'll go to the theatre for your sake and clap my hands off. But has he spoken to Sothern about the sketch?"

"He tried to get him on the 'phone at the Lambs' Club," answered the Manicure Lady, "but them guys in the lobby wouldn't let him up as they have made a bit, and there you are."

"Yes," said the Head Barber, "and there you are."

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

IF YOU LOVE HIM—YES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have known a young man ever since childhood and have always been very fond of him, and he thinks much of me. He has very good habits and has always proven himself a gentleman in every way and manner. Although I have not been much in his company, we have kept up a steady correspondence for about two years, and he has now asked me to marry him. He is in Washington, and if I say "Yes" to his question he will come on here; if not, he will likely remain where he is. Kindly advise me. Would you say "yes" before seeing him personally? ANXIOUS.

I DO not see why you should not accept him by letter. You have known him for years and have written to him during the years of his absence. If you love him, write and accept him. If you are not quite sure of yourself, ask him to come and talk things over. If he sincerely loves you, he will come.

TOMORROW'S BEST BARGAINS
IN BOSTON'S BIG STORES

JUST TWENTY LADIES' suits (the formerly sold for $15) will be on sale at Conrad's tomorrow for $7.50. In fact so are semi-fitted jacket suits, with plaited skirts; also a few fancy trimmed Etons, some of light mixtures in smart checks and stripes. These suits are lined with linen and will be found very good values. Sizes run from 34 to 38.

A VERY SMART LITTLE COAT for children from four years to fourteen years will be found at A. Shuman's for $1.98. It is made of a fine quality of Scotch mixtures, in light and dark stripes, is well lined and has plain collar, cuffs and emblem on sleeve to match. At this price such a coat is exceptional bargains and ought to sell quickly.

A BARGAIN IN MEN'S hosiery that is worth while is Norwell's. For one day only there is on sale a fine lot of imported flat black cotton hose, with white heel and double toe, at the special price of 25 cents a pair. These hose have been selling for 35 cents a pair and were specials at that price.

There are several pretty patterns in plain and fancy meshes, also dotted veilings in black and colors, that have been reduced to about half price. This price is "special" for Friday only.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO purchase a dainty lawn waist for only 39 cents you will find Filene's Basement Store where they are really bargains. This style waist is made with button down back and three-quarter sleeves, front trimmed with rows of Val. insertion and filet medallions forming a square effect. They formerly sold for $1. In this lot will also be found a few odd waists that were sold for different prices up to $2.

AT HENRY SIEGEL COMPANY'S THEY will cater to readers of this BOSTON AMERICAN in lots of pretty white muslin petticoats for Friday at 19 cents. These have deep flounce of white cambric and muslin insertion, with or without tucks and there are three styles from which to choose. One of the most popular styles in neckwear for spring, they ought to sell quickly at at this price.

Good Humor Is the Best Spring Tonic

THERE is nothing like a sense of humor to keep one young. Most of us, in this medieal contemporary, but it would be well had we been told at the same time how to cultivate it. That is to be done?

Some people cannot see puns—maybe they have their reward, but it puns can save their life there should surely be some school of instruction where these folk might learn how to enjoy word distortion.

Then the question arises: What is a sense of humor? English and Americans entirely disagree on this subject. One might be very ill and regain health immediately by exercising one's sense of humor on one's native heath, so to say, while if one were in America and had to rely on transatlantic funny stories one would be sold to a customer at this price.

IN THE VEILING DEPARTMENT OF MacDonnell's Tremont Temple Store will be found a lot of veilings for 10 cents a yard, which might possibly languish and die.

No Fat Women at Lyons.

For true female grace and handsome figures the city of Lyons surpasses all French towns, declare a recent traveler. The women of both high and low degree are alike equal in the possession of graceful, flowing body lines. They are not thin, but elegant; as a man would say, just right. I understand this highly ornamental condition of the women is due in a true wherever Marmola is much used, as it is in this famous old silk town. American women who are too fat, little or much, should adopt this extremely valuable and simple plan of reducing. Get Marmola in 50 ounce sealed packages (see it is sealed) is obtainable in all American drug stores. Take a dose (5 ounces Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Syrup Simplex and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. The whole receipt costs but a few cents, but it takes off the fat in a wonderful way—even as much as 16 ounces a day without causing wrinkles or any ill effects. Fact is, it improves the health and brings brilliancy to the eyes and complexion. Marmola, Co., Detroit, Mich.

WOMAN TAKES REALTY DEAL INTO COURT

Seeks Injunction Against Man She Boarded 20 Years at $400 Per Year.

PAID DOWN $2,000 CASH

Declaring that board, lodging and washing for Michael T. Keohane has been worth only $400 a year, and that she wants an accounting from him and a settlement of a property dispute, Mrs. Margaret L. Murphy has petitioned the Superior Court, equity session, for an injunction restraining Keohane from disposing of the property and also for an order requiring an accounting from him. Judge Richardson issued an order of notice, returnable April 28.

Mrs. Murphy says that in July, 1888, she employed Keohane to buy a house and lot on Oak avenue, West Roxbury, for her; that he paid $3,500 for it, and that she gave him $2,000 cash and borrowed $1,500 from him to pay the balance. It was agreed between them that she should give him board, lodging and washing till the $1,500 was paid off, and that the title should be in his name meanwhile.

Mrs. Murphy says she has boarded and lodged Keohane ever since, and that it is worth $400 a year; also that she has paid taxes and repairs amounting to $2,500, but that Keohane advanced her certain money toward those expenses. She says Keohane refuses to convey the property to her, and that she wants an accounting.

C. H. PARKER DEAD, AGED 91

Charles H. Parker, father of Fire Commissioner Samuel P. Parker, died to-day at his home on Chestnut street.

Mr. Parker was one of a class of seven who graduated from Harvard in 1833, and was secretary of his class until his death. He was born in Boston nearly ninety-two years ago, and had lived here all his life.

One of his classmates in Harvard was the late Judge Rockwood H. Hoar, brother of the late Senator Hoar. Mr. Parker served in the Boston Common Council in the late thirties, and was a delegate to the national convention in Baltimore in 1840 which nominated William Henry Harrison to the presidency.

He was admitted to the bar in 1838. Until four years ago he was treasurer of the Suffolk Savings Bank.

"I'M GLAD I KILLED MY MOTHER," CRIES YOUTH

VICIOUS PRISONER, FACING COURT FOR THE CRIME, REGRETS HE FAILED TO KILL FAMILY.

NEW YORK, April 9.—"I killed my mother and I am glad of it. I would be given more glad if I had murdered the entire family. Why shouldn't I have slain them?"

This was the cool, calm confession made by Bernard Carlin, a convict, not yet of age, when he was arraigned before Magistrate Furlong in the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, to-day. He had shot down and instantly killed his parent, Mrs. Susan Carlin, in her home, No. 367 Quincy street.

"I never knew what a mother's love was," he went on. "The stray dog in the street has led a better life than I have and it was all my mother's fault. I never knew the love of a home never knew the meaning of boyhood.

Says Mother Deserted Him.

"My mother brought me into the world and then forgot me. At the age of five she sent me to an orphan asylum. There they taught me to steal, and when I emerged at the age of eight I had learned but one thing—crime.

"I was free less than a year. Then I was sent back and came out at the age of sixteen.

"I stayed out two years and then I was sent back. My mother knew the conditions, but she did not try to help me. I came out of the Napanoch reformatory in Ulster county Monday. Before they turned me loose I dreamt that I was to be sent back. In the same vision I shot my mother and my brother.

Now Prepared to Die.

"The physicians say I will go blind from confinement in four months. I am gradually losing my sight, so what is the use of living, anyway. I am prepared to die to-morrow—to-day—at once."

As Carlin was being led toward the court prison, he turned to the magistrate and said:

"Let them kill me quick. Why should anyone who in all his life never knew a mother's love want to live for an instant?"

COURT GRANTS THE REQUEST OF RECEIVERS

Judges Putnam and Dodge in the United States Circuit Court to-day granted the petition of the receivers of the Metropolitan Steamship Company to issue receiver's certificates to the amount of $80,000 to carry on the business of the steamship company.

Calvin Austin of this city, William T. Cobb of Rockland, Me., and A. L. Culver of New York are the receivers. They hope, with the funds issued, to bring the company to its former high standard of business. The Metropolitan Steamship Company was one of the lines controlled by Charles W. Morse, and it went into the hands of receivers when the crash came.

SEARCH WOODS FOR WOMAN

Shortly before noon to-day a woman, wandering around the woods in Newton Upper Falls, in the vicinity of the Marsten & Wells fireworks factory, was seen by Superintendent Wedger, who notified the police. When seen the woman was crawling on her hands and knees.

The police scoured the woods, but were unable to find any signs of her, and a search is in progress to find out if any one is missing from that district.

TRAMP HOLDS UP BOY.

DEXTER, Me., April 9.—D. C. Carleton, eighteen years of age, was held up in the vicinity of North Dexter by a tramp. The young man was made to hold up his hands, while the would-be road agent went through his clothing. The only reward received was a few pennies.

SMALL BOY RUN OVER BY AUTO; MAY DIE

Nine-year-old Harold Hewitt was run over by an automobile on Dartmouth street to-day and seriously, if not fatally, injured. He is now at the City Hospital. It is feared his skull is fractured.

Harold lives at No. 196 Dartmouth street. He started to cross Dartmouth street, near the Boston & Albany Railroad Bridge, when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Eugene B. Bicker of No. 8 Hope avenue, Lynn.

So far the police could learn the case was wholly accidental, and they have taken no action. Mr. Bicker stopped his car immediately, picked up the lad, and, with Mr. Hewitt, who had come out of the house, started at top speed for the hospital.

ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIMSELF ON STEAMER

PROVIDENCE, April 9.—An Italian, about thirty-five years old, well dressed, was found in a passageway on the port side of the Joy line steamer Tennessee late yesterday afternoon with his throat cut. The man was in the act of using the razor again when it was taken from him by one of the waiters. Agent Stone was notified, and he sent in a call for an ambulance. The Italian was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, where it was said late night that he would recover.

MANY SLAIN IN LISBON; REBELS TURN ASSASSINS

GOVERNMENT'S FOES INAUGURATE REIGN OF TERROR; SHOOT AND STAB OFFICIALS.

PARIS, April 9.—Rioting has ceased in Lisbon. The government's foes have resorted, in its stead, to a campaign of assassination.

Several men were shot or stabbed yesterday and last night. There are dead. A fourth is seriously wounded. The crimes were all plainly political.

Three of the victims were municipal guardsmen, and of the trio one was an officer who took a prominent part in the suppression of the riots earlier in the week. He was shot dead from ambush as he left his residence. The guards' commander died after midnight.

Two of the sentries on duty outside the same residence had been shot previously. One was killed instantly and the other will probably die. A plot is suspected to pick off the guardsmen one by one as opportunity offers.

A fourth victim was a high official of police, who was stabbed some time last night and found in an obscure street early to-day with the assassin's knife still sticking in his back.

There are the gravest apprehensions for the safety of King Manuel and members of his cabinet, and the most elaborate precautions are being taken to protect them from violence.

The censorship on all messages out of Lisbon continues almost as strict as it can possibly be made without absolutely cutting off communication.

BROTHERS, PARTED 52 YEARS, REUNITED

LAWRENCE, April 9.—Reunited after fifty-two years, Joseph P. West of No. 105 Bailey street, this city, Lawrence, and his brother Thomas of Boyceville, Wis., who is visiting him here, are still finding delight in the exchange of experiences. Each brother had believed the other dead until they were brought together by Congressman Butler Ames of Lowell.

Both brothers are Grand Army veterans, Joseph having served in the New York regiment with the Army of the Potomac, while Thomas fought with the Wisconsin troops further to the South.

WOMAN IN WOODPILE CAUGHT BY POLICE

WAREHAM, April 9.—After successfully eluding the police for ten days, Celia Bedell was arrested at Tremont late last night, and to-day she will be given a hearing on a charge of selling liquor.

She was arrested at Tremont in the big liquor raid a week ago Sunday, and was in charge of Policeman Sumet. She left the room a moment to change her clothing and did not return. The police became suspicious, and when they looked for her she was gone. Yesterday she was found hiding in a cellar of the boarding house behind a pile of wood by Policeman J. C. Clark.

FEARED LOSS OF JOB; TOOK FATAL DRAUGHT

Because he had been threatened with discharge from his position with Lord, Chubbuck Company, William J. Leever, aged 39 years, and living at No. 240 Blue Hill avenue, drank a dose of cyanide of potassium in his room early today and was dead when found a short time later by his wife.

Leever, it is said, had been working as a brush maker for the Chubbuck Company for several years and recently received a warning that he must attend more closely to his work. The letter came yesterday he was more than usually despondent and his wife says he refused to drink poison. She took a bottle from him and threw away the contents. She thought he had entirely recovered from his fit of the "blues," and today when she rose at 6 o'clock in time to go to work thought it nothing strange.

About 10 o'clock she went to her husband's room to call him and found him unconscious on the bed. Believing that he had fainted, she summoned Dr. Horgan of Blue Hill avenue, who found the man was dead. Leever leaves five children, the youngest aged three and the oldest nineteen.

RICH BANKER SUICIDE.

STOUGHTON, Mass., April 9.—M. A. Johnson, cashier of the First National Bank of Stoughton, was found dead in his room with a tube from a gas fixture in his mouth. Mr. Johnson was wealthy and the bank, so far as is known, is in excellent financial condition. The bank is capitalized at $50,000.

RED SOX WILL REMAIN IN SOUTH NEXT YEAR TILL TIME FOR CHAMP GAMES

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

DAYTON, Ohio, April 9.—The Red Sox are a step nearer home to-day after a somewhat frigid experience in Fort Wayne. When the Boston party hiked out of the Indiana town like a strand of minstrel troupe it was a doleful procession. Deacon Jim McGuire, who led in the short walk from the hotel to depot had an expression on his map that would have allowed Gloomy Gus to melt one hundred and fifty trumps and then beat out that famous character. President John L. who brought up the in rear of the procession looked a lot like he does after a losing game on the Huntington Avenue Grounds. The players sarcastically called for skates and ear muffs.

The weather was the cause of it all. Cold and dreary weather, cutting wind blowing, whose as much unlike a baseball day as could be imagined. The result of this year's experience not only in Fort Wayne, but in Toledo, Indianapolis and Cincinnati as well, is that the Boston Americans will not be future play any exhibition games north of the Ohio River until four or five days before the opening of the championship season, when a series will be played with the Cincinnati Reds. Fifteen games were booked at a conference between John I. Taylor and Harry Herrmann when the Red Sox were in Cincinnati last week. The dates are the Saturday, Sunday and Monday preceding the start of the American League race of 1909.

Rough Weather a Handicap.

The Red Sox, after getting in the condition in Hot Springs, have been handicapped by rainy and cold days ever since leaving Louisville. The two days in Fort Wayne topped the climax and as soon as the train that bore us to Dayton was well under way Manager Jim outright and President John and had a heart to heart talk with him regarding the situation.

"What's the use of getting in fine trim down South and then coming North with one run into this kind of weather?" asked the Manager.

"None at all," replied the President. "You are right. We will cut out everything about the Cincinnati games which have already been booked. What is your idea about next year's training?"

"Well," said the Manager, "let us not report at Little Rock before March 10. Let us stay there two or three days over weeks and then go to Memphis or Louisville. We can pick up enough games in that territory to keep us busy, and if we get in a good Sunday at either Memphis or Louisville it will pay us better than all our barnstorming down this way. Then go to Cincinnati to wind up the exhibitions season and then move on to the Washington or Philadelphia for the opening of the season.

"That suits me," said Mr. Taylor. "And I will ask Secretary McBreen to arrange next year's trip on these lines as soon as he can do so."

Other big league clubs which have been touring this territory have had the same experience as the Red Sox. The Cincinnati Reds, the White Sox, the Cubs and the Detroit Tigers are all reported to be in poor shape after having left the South to start the regular season. The New York Americans, Idole's Cleveland club and the Pittsburg aggs seem to have been the only wise ones in the two big leagues. They have stayed South as long as possible and will escape the chilly weather to-day and will be out of necessity come North to open the season.

Last Exhibition Games.

President Taylor had a long distance telephone talk with Eddie Riley who is in charge of the Tannigans at Springfield, Ohio, eighteen miles from here. Eddie reported that the youngsters under Uncle Ty Young were in fine shape and looked to him like a first-class ball club. The Tannigans are booked to play one game at Springfield on Friday and then they go to Wareing, W. Va., for two games, after which they leave for Boston via Washington and Philadelphia. In the meantime, the first team will play here to-day and to-morrow, then go to Columbus for Saturday and Sunday and leave Sunday night for Boston via Cleveland, Buffalo and Albany, arriving home at 9 o'clock Monday night.

Manager McGuire has for some days been worried about Cy Morgan, who left the team at Cincinnati and went to his home in Martins Ferry, Ohio, on account of the illness of his wife. Newspaper reports had it that the minstrel had joined the Tannigans. McGuire had told him to report to the Regulars, as he wanted to preserve all his arm for Columbus games. Eddie Riley told us on the phone, however, that Morgan was still at home but that he would join the team at Columbus. Martins Ferry is across the river from Wareing Ferry. The wife is satisfactory to Eddie.

The weather is noticeably warmer in Dayton than it was in Fort Wayne and the players are walking around with something that approaches a smile. Cold weather is the only thing a ball player cannot play. When it is warm he can play when it is cold he is a miserable creature.

Glad to Leave Fort Wayne.

It was a long ride from Fort Wayne but all hands were glad to get away. Yes, indeed, they were glad to get away on account of cold weather, rain and grounds ankle deep in mud. The party took an extended train instead of travelling by night, and arrived here at 9 o'clock last night. It was too late for dinner at the hotel so the players made for the nearest restaurant and ordered everything in sight. There is nothing more ravenous than a hungry ball player.

BEAUMONT SAYS HE'S IN SHAPE

By Bill Ross.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 9.—The Dodgers are going to play the Lancaster team here this afternoon, if the weather permits. The Boston Nationals came into this staid old town from Harrisburg this morning, after a rest of twenty-four hours, which they did not want. It was raining when they left Baltimore, and poured when they detrained at Harrisburg. But it had cleared up by noon there would have been nothing doing in the ball line. The Harrisburg park is on an island in the Susquehanna River, and the grounds were so swampy that the boys would have run the risk of rheumatic wings if they had undertaken a game.

It was a loaf around the hotel all day, except for a matinee visit to a local vaudeville show. Most of the team accepted the invitation of the management and occupied boxes.

"Diggsy" Beaumont looks fine. He was at the hotel when the Boston battalion marched in. He appears down to fighting weight and his skin is pink and white. He wrote Manager Joe Kelley he would show up in good condition, and made good on the promise. He has been attending to his chicken ranch at Honey Creek Wisconsin, all Winter.

"The only thing I've done this Spring," he said, "has been with boys. Now I want to take hold with men."

All Kinds of Weather.

The Doves have had a mixture of weather since they left Augusta. In some towns it has been broiling hot, in others raw and cold with a little rain thrown in. But they have not been badly disappointed when they saw the clouds leaking.

"Chief" Bender and Vive Lindaman, "is as bad now as two later on. We want to get in a few days more practice.

It is not likely that Beaumont will play this afternoon. He played three eight innings up for a day or two before he starts in to work in a regular game. Joe Kelley will take Ban McInnis's place at first, if there is a game to-day. Ivy got his foot under the sack while sliding to a base during the last game in Baltimore and wrenched his knee slightly. The injury is trifling, but Kelley thought Ban might as well rest up for a day or two.

Jim Ball's damaged finger is getting right. But All the rest of the team are fit for the pennant fray, except Big Jeff Pfeffer, who has stiffness in his arm somewhat sore. Ferguson and "Little Cy" Young are on the list for battery work to-day and Frank Bowerman and "Peaches" Graham will be behind the bat.

Bowerman's Many Friends.

Bowerman leads in the New York Journal rating contest for the most popular player outside of Manhattan. "I'm glad I've got so many friends in New York," said Frank, "and I'm going to try and be a player to have the fans with him in a way later in the year. I enjoyed New York all I hope and pray is that I escape injury this season. I do till play the best baseball of my life, and do it for Gotham's sake. I've always liked New York. I never began a season in such good condition as I am in this year. I'm ready to work. With our pitchers in shape we have a chance to make a run for it in the League. It's a hot pace to hold up."

Beaumont voiced the sentiments of all the Doves when he spoke in praise of President Dovey. No team ever began a season with higher regard for the part of players for president and manager.

There is talk of a 10-yard race between Johnny Bates and Harry Hoffman. But for rain it might have been pulled off in Harrisburg yesterday. Both these out-fielders are sure enough sprinters. If the race takes place Bowerman will handle Hoffman and Pat Flaherty will see Johnny's best man.

Besides George Browne, Beaumont and the outfield kids, Cecil Ferguson can get around the ground like a jack rabbit afraid of the dark.

To-morrow the Doves play in Wilmington and on Saturday in Trenton. Both of these games will be with Eastern League teams. The Trenton game ends the exhibition season of the Doves. The New York Saturday night and real for two days before the ball swings for the championship season of 1908. The Waterbury date will be cancelled and Hugh Duffy expected to have the Doves play his nine at Rocky Point on Sunday was declined. It was too long a jump.

METS TO HAVE FAST COURSE FOR OPENING

Superintendent John I. Gilman of the Charles River Speedway is leaving nothing unspared in having the course in prime condition for the opening matinee of the Metropolitan Driving Club on April 28. He has a gang of men and teams resolling the surface to the depth of some three inches, which will have to be rolled and brushed till the track is like a billiard table for the horses to race over.

Chairman John Dorey of the Mets race committee announces that entries for the Spring series of matinees will close Saturday forenoons for the following Tuesdays, and members intending to enter must bear this fact in mind so as not to be late in getting their trotters and pacers properly listed.

Regarding the day of matinee racing scheduled for some Saturday in June at Combination Park a few of the members were afraid that the change might not be a paying one. In order that the Mets may not stand a chance of losing money George A. Graves has come to the front with the proposition to make good out of his pocket any loss there may be, but says that he feels confident that instead the club will have a wholesome credit to their cash account when the books on the day's outing have been balanced.

FRENCHMAN BEAT TURK.

Caseaux, the big Frenchman, won over Krakanoff, the hussy Turk, in the Greco-Roman wrestling match at the Colonial Theatre. Caseaux won the first fall in fifteen minutes and the second in four minutes.

Armour, Discussing Rooters, Calls HUB FANS THE FAIREST

TOLEDO, April 9.—In discussing rooting and the temper of baseball crowds of various cities, Manager Bill Armour of the local club had this bouquet to throw at the Hub fans:

"As to the comparative fairness of the fans, I think Boston is entitled to stand at the top of the list in this respect. In fact, the Boston players of both major league clubs declare that the Boston fans are inclined to carry their sense of utter fairness to an extreme.

"A few years ago, when I was managing the Detroit team, I saw a remarkable demonstration of this fact. The game was played in the afternoon of Bunker Hill day, a holiday in Boston, and there was an immense crowd at the game. The Detroit baseball club had cleanly walked away with three games of a series of four in Boston, and we had, too, won before the American League team had hit the tobogganing. But if they were surprised, the Boston fans certainly were not sore. The game on the afternoon of Bunker Hill day was the fourth and last of the series, and the visiting team, the score was a tie at 5 to 5.

"With two hands down Patsy Dougherty, the Boston pitcher, sent a short center, Dick Cooley was playing centerfield for the Detroit that day. Dick measured the ball's speed from the crack of the bat, and he ran no less there may be, but says that he feels confident that instead the club will have a wholesome credit to their cash account when the books on the day's outing have been balanced.

FRENCHMAN BEAT TURK.

Caseaux, the big Frenchman, won over Krakanoff, the hussy Turk, in the Greco-Roman wrestling match at the Colonial Theatre. Caseaux won the first fall in fifteen minutes and the second in four minutes.

JEFF WANTS UNHOLZ TO BOX WINNER

Special to the Boston American.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 9.—James J. Jeffries is after Rudolph Unholz, the big heavyweight fighting Packy McFarland or Battling Nelson before his new club house here, and he is making up a purse of $4,000 for the battle. Jeffries announces that the bout must be for twenty-five rounds and at the lightweight limit.

Unholz is in Davenport, and has sent word to Jeff that he will fight anybody the big ex-heavyweight names, provided he gets $3,000 for his end. He bars Joe Gans as a lightweight only, however, and says he will not fight the champion unless he can get him on to a dish contest.

The match is still hanging fire, and if Unholz will come down a little in his terms there is every likelihood that it will be made. Jeffries would be the card if he wins from Britt, and Jeff prefers him to the Dane, but Nelson always draws well in Los Angeles and will be very acceptable.

MIKE REGAN BACK HOME.

That well-known baseball rooter, Mike Regan, is again on the Hub's Great White Way after a long trip West, where he visited the various training camps.

"The only trouble McGuire will have this season," said Mike, "is picking a team from among the fleet-footed ball players.

Hugh McGreen presented the king of rooters with a season pass, good at all grounds in the American League.

KID GOODMAN DEFEATED IN FAST BOUT

NEW YORK, April 9.—Harlem Tommy Murphy, benefited by a long rest, appeared before the members of the Sharkey A. C. and defeated Kid Goodman of Boston in a fast six-round bout. Murphy won clearly on points and in the matter of punishment handed out.

In the first two rounds the "Pride of Harlem" was disconcerted a bit by the close range fighting of the Bostonian. In fact, during the first round Goodman pressed Murphy so closely that he rushed the "Pride" under the ropes and therefore had the better of the two rounds.

In the third round Murphy began to force Goodman, and the Harlem boy began to get the better of the exchanges. He rocked Goodman's head several times with right and left swings. Goodman tried to get at close range again, but Murphy held off.

The fourth round saw the best fight. Murphy and Kid Goodman fought like fighting fools, holding the Hub man at a disadvantage and landing at will at Goodman showed ability to take a lot of punishment and was clear headed at the end. The last two rounds were even. Murphy showed up considerably better and kept his lead by keeping Goodman at arm's length.

The semi-windup between Jimmy Moran and Young Nonpareil Morris was a fast one, Moran almost out, although Eddie's opponent, George Kitson, refused to fight a draw.

Then a re... hood named ...RUS THROWS BEEL was a ... ...ORIS. Md., April 9.—"American" Joe Grim defeated Fred Beel by ...alling the first two falls of a wrestling match, that was to have been best two in three. The first fall was gained by "American Joe" in twenty-one minutes and the second in two minutes.

PERCIVAL BEATS CROCKET.

In the eighteenth match of the three-cushion tournament at the Boston Athletic Palace Percival defeated Crocket, 28 to 25.

WALT WARREN HAS WINNING STABLE

WORCESTER, April 9.—Walter Warren, the Shrewsbury trainer and driver, will have a good stable of trotters and pacers not just the money over the half-mile tracks the coming season, but that he looks for the best report from is the stallion Achille Medium, by Achille, 2:15¼, out of Nancy Medium, 2:28¾, by Riley Medium, 2:10½. Two years ago this horse worked over a two-lapped track in 2:33, the last quarter in :33, and he is much faster now. Lady Sable, of Southbridge owns an eight-year-old gelding in Warren's string that can trot very fast. Then T. Frank Hall of this city is to bring him back to the two-record filly Boulbel, by Achille, that worked a mile in 2:18¾ that is not all. Warren will go the limit with the little Hilton, by Stirling, and Charles Walker of North Reading, his mare Brooklyn Belle, by Warren Guy (2:12¾).

STEFFENS AGAIN CHAMP.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Fred Steffens of the National Athletic Club of Brooklyn won the all-round gymnastic championship of the Amateur Athletic Union at the Savage Institute. J. J. Smith of Cambridgeport was second in rope climbing.

BOUT FOR GARDNER.

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Jimmy Gardner and Unk Russell will meet here at Jeffrie's club on April 23. Russell is being substituted for Harry Lewis, who drew out of the match.

DUAL TRACK MEET.

Arrangements are being made for a dual track meet between Volkmann School and the Freshmen, to be held on Soldiers' Field May 8.

GOOD MARES AT BRISTLIAN

Joseph Swendeman, one of the leading members of the Dorchester Driving Club, reports that his young stallion Bristlian, by Allewood (2:09¾), is fairly taking loud breeders by storm, and his book is rapidly filling.

Recently the following well-known horsemen have booked mares: J. W. Llanelan, his mare Helen Dare, by Lord Devil (2:09); A. H. Keeler, the mare Miss Wilkes, by Abbot Wilkes (2:11), winner of the seven-heat race Saturday over the Franklin Field speedway; O. W. Watson, his mare Villa Hilton, by Stirling, and Charles Walker of North Reading, his mare Brooklyn Belle, by Warren Guy (2:12¾).

JOE DILLON AFTER RECORD

A local stallion of which much is expected the coming season is Joe Dillon, by Baron Dillon, 2:12, the property of Webb Tyler, of Medford. Trainer Bob Lundy of Readville track is of the opinion that this horse can easily secure a record of 2:13 over any good mile course. Mr. Tyler has, too, a couple of very promising youngsters sired by Joe Dillon, both out of a mare by Wilkes, that he has entered in the futurity stakes.

It is likely that Mr. Tyler will take Joe Dillon to Combination Park a little later, with the idea of giving him a race record. Last year he raced him in the Vermont Circuit, and may conclude to repeat the campaign this year.

NEW AMATEUR LEAGUE.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, April 9.—An amateur baseball league has been organized here. The teams comprise the Oxfords and Mt. Hopes of North Attleboro, the Plainville A. A., South Attleboro and possibly Wrentham.

LOWELL WRESTLER WINS.

LEWISTON, Me., April 9.—In a wrestling match at Montavon Hall in this city Wilfred Barrett of Lowell, Mass., known as "Kid" Dodo of this city, securing two falls, each in nine minutes.

At Durham—Trinity 10, Dartmouth, 9.

LOSES $10,000 AT FAKE FIGHT

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 9.—Because he could not refit a "fake" wrestling match from the real thing in that line, President W. J. Sprengborn of the Public Service Athletic Exhibition Club of this city will not stage a bout here between Tom Johnson and Jim Flynn, both of whom are to be seen in Boston shortly. Johnson is out $10,000. He is hot for vengeance, now that it is all over.

The detectives have arrested C. E. Foster and J. W. Fleming of Cleveland, and are looking for five other men and also for the vanished promoter.

Springborn was introduced to two alleged wrestlers, and they came to an agreement on the proposed match.

The guileless Cleveland official was made "betting clerk" on the match, on which $42,000 was bet by his new friends, who put the money, including his $10,000, in a box, which took it away for safe keeping, they said. He hasn't seen it since.

7-COUNT 'EM-7 GOTCH VICTIMS

CHICAGO, April 9.—Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, threw seven men in nineteen minutes and ten seconds at a local theatre last night. He gave a clever exhibition of his wonderful ability on the mat and set the big crowd which watched the performance wild with enthusiasm.

The seven wrestlers were men with good reputations about the city, several being champions of various athletic clubs where wrestling is featured.

CANUCKS IN THE MARATHON

Canada will be represented in the B. A. A. Marathon after all. At least four runners from Montreal, identified with the A. A. U., accord with the request signed by the A. A. U., will come on for the road run on April 20.

Word is expected from Thibaud, the winner of the Marathon at St. Louis. Hatch, Corey, Burns, Risser and other Western runners state that they will be here not later than a day or two.

A grandstand near the clubhouse will be built for the accommodation of the B. A. A. members who wish to see the finish. The pavilion will seat 400.

MELLOR WILL RUN AGAIN

YONKERS, N. Y., April 9.—The Mercury Athletic Club nominated Samuel A. Mellor, Jr., Albert Hayden and Tom P. Morrissey to compete in the Marathon race to be held in Boston on Patriots' Day, April 20.

This run will be the Eastern try-out of candidates for the Olympic games to be held in London in June. A fourth runner to compete in the Boston race will be determined in a run to be held by the Mercury Club on Sunday. Mellor has won three Marathon races. Hayden won the Sawyer prize in the Yonkers Marathon on last Thanksgiving Day, and was second to Morrissey, who won the recent twenty-five-mile indoor race in New York city.

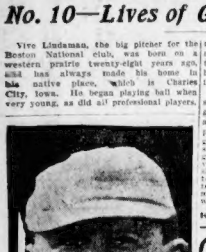
LINDAMAN SAYS THERE ARE MANY PITFALLS IN CAREER OF A "PRO" BALL PLAYER

No. 10—Lives of Great Ball Players

Vive Lindaman, the big pitcher for the Boston National club, was born on a western prairie twenty-eight years ago, and has always made his home in his native place, which is Charles City, Iowa. He began playing ball when very young, as did all professional players.



VIVE LINDAMAN.

Between school times he pitched, batted and ran bases until he got the reputation among other boys of being a crack-a-jack player. He played with the strongest nines in Charles City and finally found himself playing semi-professional ball around northern Iowa.

It was easy for him to get a chance to pick up a little money in this way, for he has always been a pitcher. In 1904 he was signed by the Sioux City club, and he went there for a big league trial that year, joining the Pittsburg Club. He was sent to the Jersey City Club by the Pittsburg management and finished the season there. He was traded to Boston in 1906.

Vive is a tall, well built man, and got a good training as a professional ball player by working for Uncle Sam. As a letter carrier in Charles City he had to hoof it seventeen miles a day. He would hustle over his route in order to get to the ball park in time to pitch ball and says that the work he put in at home made Spring training in the South look easy.

"I got into the professional ranks," he said, "by playing ball in the country and getting talked about as a pitcher. Clubs all around Northern Iowa wanted me to pitch games for them, and I was put by it at a chance to play league ball. That seems to be the history of most men in getting into professional baseball. My advice to a boy who wants to be a professional ball player is brief? It's simply to stick to the job you have. Traveling with a ball team favolves too many temptations for most boys to withstand. A good home is worth staying by."

(The next article will be on Joe Kelley, the Doves' manager.)

The Spring months invariably bring sickness to lots of people. The system needs cleansing of winter impurities, and the blood made pure. For this work

GEORGE'S, NEW YORK, ESTABLISHED 1879.
GEORGE'S TAILOR PARLORS, 14 SUMMER STREET.

The Sale of Merchant Tailors' Misfit and Unfinished Garments is the greatest tailoring event of the season, while a feature new to Boston, we have established parlors in the heart of the city, where our success there caused us to open parlors in 20 principal cities of the world. Our success is due to an additional feature, which is the fact that we employ a population of three and half-million people to do our tailoring, and they appreciate our offers at $12, $15, $18, $20, $25 and $30 for suits and overcoats, which are the equal of any $40 to $60 tailoring in Boston. When the tailor has garments left on his hands, for any reason, he knows that we positively cannot sell to one before the garments another customer. As THE CLEARING HOUSE for misfit and unfinished garments, we are the largest in the world. MRS. ADAMS, 1 Tremont st.

To Those Who Drink Hard

You Have Slipped the Belt

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Men have explained variously their reasons for drinking to excess.

An able architect drank too much every night. He said that he HAD to drink. If he went to bed perfectly sober his mind went on working and dreaming after he had gone to sleep, and he woke up fatigued and unable to attend to his work.

"I don't want to drink," said he, "but in order to do my work I must have the sleep that follows what is ordinarily called taking too much."

Other men explained excess of drinking as follows:

"I must have the mental excitement that comes from drinking."

"You can't imagine the delightful agility of the mind under the influence of alcohol."

"The brain works more quickly, more energetically, more freely."

"After drinking a certain amount I can live more in an hour than I could ordinarily in a month." Etc.

These men who believe that alcohol improves the mind, stimulating it to better effort, constitute a very large class, perhaps the largest class of those who drink to excess.

We wish we could persuade such men that they are mistaken in believing that excessive alcohol feeds the brain.

The man who has drunk too much, and thinks that his mind is working splendidly, might learn something by studying any sort of machinery when the belt slips off the wheel, or the screw of a steamer when the power of the waves throws the screw out of the water.

While the belt is securely attached, doing its work, it turns slowly and monotonously.

While the screw is buried in the water, fighting its way and pushing its load ahead, it turns slowly and laboriously.

When the belt slips off or the screw comes out of the water the whole thing is changed. The screw whizzes around like lightning. The belt rattles and dances.

The screw in the water and the machinery doing its work properly are like the sober brain.

The brain that is made abnormal by alcohol is simply the screw out of water, the misplaced machine belt. The brain is no longer connected with the working realities of life. It has lost its balance and its function. It works rapidly and aimlessly. It moves with wonderful swiftness, but it accomplishes nothing.

Let men who drink too much, believing that the action of their minds is improved by drinking, think over this proposition about the machinery and see if there is not something in it to interest them.

How much actual work does this alcoholized brain turn out? What do they actually DO "next day"?

This Humble Thief Went to Jail

Meanwhile, Rich Law-Breakers Are Still Enjoying Their Freedom

The arrest and imprisonment of a New York policeman as a law-breaker and public plunderer is a mixture of pathos and opera bouffe.

This man is a public official. He is charged with the conservation of law and order and the PROTECTION of the public. Accused of looting stores or robbing houses or attacking pedestrians on the streets of Brooklyn, he is haled before a jury and, on the evidence, is put in JAIL.

All of which is regular and proper, and as it should be.

But the phase which excites comment in the case is the discrimination shown between the HUMBLE policeman and the RICH law-breaker.

There are men much higher up in the world who hold responsible official positions and are charged with the conservation of public interests and the life, property and convenience of the people.

These men are openly accused before the bar of public opinion and clearly PROVEN guilty of looting corporations, robbing individuals and holding up stockholders and the people in public enterprises.

But they are not haled before judges and juries, and they are not put in jail.

On the other hand, they are allowed to go free and to prosper mightily in business and in society, laughing to scorn the charges and the proofs which are brought against them.

The policeman, who is a HUMBLE fellow, is brought to trial and punished.

The bank looter, the franchise robber, the corporation boodler is magnified in commerce and in social life.

What an unfortunate thing it is to be a burglarious policeman!

And what a fat and fancy job it is to be a corporation thief!

Mein Bober Looey:—Ve haf received your letter from Minneapolis und ve vas glat to heered it dot your healt' still associations mit you.

Ve vas all vell at home mit der exception dot I haf decisioned to keep a garten dis summer, und much misery is eggspected to haff my company.

Ven a man is living in der country der idea to keep a garten always gets a prominence in his brain ven comes der Spring-time, und at der same time chenerally comes der idea in his neighbor's mind to keep chickens mit der result dot der man mit der garten spends der summer swearing at der man mit der chickens und der man mit der chickens spends der summer calling der man mit der garten a horse t'ief, und der only person dot profits is a long-legged Plymouth Rock rooster mit a bunch of incandescent fedders on his ankles.

Ve vas all vell at home mit der exception dot I haf decisioned to put up a tennis court in der back lot to see could der eggsercise removed some of der surplus acreage adjacent to und in der region of my equator.

You know, Looey, in all der history of criminal churisprudence nuddings vas quite so qvaint as to see a fat old man in a vite cotton suit, und a perspiration chasing a leedle rubber ball oferr his suburban property for der purpose of getting this und dereby gifing himself appetite like a horse for der purpose of getting fat.

Ve vas all vell at home mit der eggsception dot your mother eggspectations to go to town to-morrer to buy herself a new hat for Easter und my pocketbook looks like a kind word for Taft in der presence of a Hughes delegation—it simply ain't.

Easter vas a nice idea, Looey, mit der beautiful sentiments vich go mit it, und der thoughts of ba'my Spring, und der birdies singing py der vayside, but vy should der vimmen's hats spread deir dark pinions ofer der picture und leave behind dem nuddings but a trail of empty check books und punctured bank accounts?

Ve vas all vell at home mit der eggsception dot your leedle brother, Heinrich, has got a new air rifle und der ventilation in our house is now perfect because he has only spared about four panes of glass in our whole collection.

Yesterday he vent ouid in der kitchen und asked for a fragment of wienerschnitzel, und ven der cook refused him politely but mit der broom in her hand he shot a morsel of her ear off und rushed avay laughing hitterly.

Der cook vished to leave de vunce und hat all der symptoms of taking der roof of der house mit her, but your mother clammed her anger so our bread builder is still mit us, a chastened voman, und minus der ear-ring holder on her left listener, but if leedle Heiney dear'd find a carpet tack in his porridge some morning den I ain't no student of der kind of human nature dot comes to us py der cook's tours.

Udderwise ve vas all vell und hanny.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

The Suit Begun by Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt Teaches Its Lesson in Wealth and Divorce

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Ten human beings retain or develop noble characteristics in toil and deprivation, where one retains them in idleness and opulence.

There was never a greater injury done humanity by the sanctifying of old fables, than in the embodying of an allegory into a creed, which represents the Creator as cursing man with labor.

The Creator of this marvellous system of worlds upon worlds never thought labor was a misfortune!

Let Labor boldly walk abroad
And take its place with kings;
For who has labored more than God,
The Maker of all things?

It is idleness which is a curse—an "unpardonable sin"—the sin which the soul of man will not pardon itself for having fallen into when it goes on into the light of fuller knowledge.

Idleness—the lack of a definite purpose—is the devil.

Thousands of men have acquired great wealth, and remained manly, moral men, and faithful husbands and clean citizens. But they were men who kept an object in life beyond the making of money. They enjoyed their work; they liked their occupation; they appreciated the opportunities of giving pleasure and help to others; and they found in their wives help and comradeship, as they climbed from obscurity to prominence.

Demands Industry

ALL over America can be found such men to-day. Right in the maelstrom of New York city they can be found.

Here and there, too, can be discovered by careful research men born to great wealth, who have reached the midday of life without having lost their self-respect, or the respect of their associates, by low standards of life.

But such men are rare, because character—the character which makes men respect their word, stand by their word and retain their ideals—must be built in youth, by self-denial, industry and a consciousness of moral responsibility toward their fellow-men.

Name over the sons of all our great multi-millionaires and ask yourself how many of these young men have been trained in a manner calculated to develop such traits.

From their cradles to long trousers, nine of every ten sons of great wealth depend upon nursemaids and tutors for guidance—nursemaids and tutors who are paid to be menials, not controllers of strength of character to be a successful and wealthy man or woman, of moral worth and decent behavior, than it requires to support the ills of poverty and failure with fortitude.

The suit brought by Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt against her husband for divorce, and the settlement of $1,000,000 which she received, have brought to the front the question of the relative value of wealth and character.

Finds Only Misery

HE will marry whom and when he pleases, and he will follow the dictates of folly, fancy, vanity and passion afterward, because he has not been educated in self-control or consideration of the rights of others, or taught that anything was demanded of him but the pursuit of pleasure.

And what a pitiful ideal of pleasure most of these young men hold, and how utterly miserable they look in their pursuit of it!

At Palm Beach a few years ago one of them was trying to reach his ideal of pleasure by opening gallons of champagne for disorderly young women, whose bills he paid. Later his beautiful young wife divorced him. He was the oldest son of one of New York's most famous families.

Coming across the ocean one season from Egypt, I was table associate of a wealthy New York woman who handles a large fortune.

She was an intellectual woman, too, and keenly alive to the benefits found in travel away from fashionable centres.

"How small life's little ills seem," she said one day, "after studying into the history of old Egypt. I have always associated with women of large means, who have nothing to worry over but the loss of their complexions or figures or their inability to have a different set of jewels for every costume. And," she added, "I myself have found much unhappiness in life over such trifling matters, which seem so trivial to me now."

Yet so settled was the habit of discontent even with this brilliant woman that she endeavored to divorce a seemingly devoted and kind husband before another year passed.

The majority of all these divorced people are church members in good standing, partaking of the sacrament and paying liberally to sustain the churches. Does it not make a sad travesty of the word religion—this fashionable mummery?

Idleness a Curse

THANK God the orthodox traditions of heaven and hell and salvation by faith are passing away before the great wave of occult—Old—New Thought, which teaches us that we will find no heaven anywhere unless we begin to make it here on earth.

The home is the corner-stone of either heaven or hell. As we build here, so will we find our mansion farther on.

Meantime let no laboring man bemoan the fact that he has not been able to give his children "the advantages of wealth." The greatest, the best, the happiest, the most useful men and women of history have not been sons or daughters of wealth.

Money can prove a blessing only when possessed by those who have character and common sense to direct them in the use of it.

To be the ruler of great wealth is not a high ambition in life, but to be the ruler of one's own self is the greatest of ambitions.
